DRIFT AWAY FROM HARDING CONTINUES

LEGUE VICTORY IS APPARENT

Head of Democratic Executive Committee Makes Statement

LEHR E. MILLER'S ESTIMATE

County Campaign Conducted in Clean Manner to the End

"The drift away from Harding and the Republican ticket goes on apace," said Lehr E. Miller, chairman of the Democratic county executive committee Saturday night, as the campaign virtually came to a close.

The large number of men and women all over the land who have left the Republican party and declared for Cox and Roosevelt continues to grow even at this late hour. The soul of America has awakened. The people are against war and they have faith that the League of Nations will prevent in the future such horrible butchery and destruction of human life and waste of millions and billions of property as in the past.

THEY ARE AGAINST WAR

"The large number of Republican and Independent and Progressive voters in Allen-co who have openly declared for Cox and the League of Nations doesn't begin to represent the number whose hearts have been stirred by the appeal of America's great President, Woodrow Wilson, for the League of Nations as insurance against future wars. Many, many of the privacy of the election booth, as they visualize the sacrifices made by our boys who fought over there that were might be no more, will respond to the promptings of their own hearts—their best impulses, and will vote for James M. Cox to make assured that the United States will enter the League of Nations." Warren G. Harding is against the League and therefore does not deserve the support of those who are determined to prevent the carnage of war.

"I have been gratified," Mr. Miller said, "to read day after day in the newspapers the accounts of college heads, church bodies, great divines, thinking newspaper editors and citizens from all walks of life who have deserted the Republican party and have come over to the standard of peace, progress and prosperity."

PRINCIPLE ABOVE PARTY

"I was particularly interested and pleased to note that among the large number of Republican newspapers that have come over to the standard of Governor Cox is the Novington, Pa., Times, which for 40 years has consistently supported Republican policies and Republican party tickets and which is published in a big Republican stronghold. Joseph J. McGinnley is its managing editor. He has placed principle above party and altho it probably means financial loss for his newspaper, he has had the manhood to come boldly to the side of right. Editor McGinnley said in the column of his paper it 'made his blood boil to see the contemptible action of the Republican Senators who, flamed by partisan jealousy and personal hatred for a great President, cravenly conspired to render void the mighty achievement at Versailles and stabbed him in the back; America has been slandered and betrayed by the Republican leadership; self respect and honor, right and humanity cry out for the election of Cox and Roosevelt.' That is the estimate of a long time Republican newspaper.

"I notice too, that Chester H. Rowell, former Republican state chairman of California and a member four years ago of the Republican national campaign, has announced his support of Governor Cox. And too, after Senator Harding's speech at Des Moines, Iowa, in which he turned his back on the League of Nations and decided in favor of the munition makers and those who pile up millions coined out of the blood of young men in war and who hear not nor care not for the sons of heart broken wives and mothers whose husbands and sons are made fodder for the cannoneers, those who fondly hoped that he would declare for the League and against future war, gave up in despair. He blasted their last hope. There was then only one thing to do. They decided to join the party of peace. Their contributions to the national Democratic campaign fund poured in from all quarters, the east, the west, the north, the south, with assurances of support at the polls for Governor Cox for President. I cannot believe that America will turn its back on the achievements of our great President. I am hopeful of success for Democracy on Tuesday."

THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN

"Concerning the county campaign," Mr. Miller said, "I am gratified to state that both sides, so far as I have been able to learn, have been conducted in a clean manner. So far as our committee and candidates are concerned, I know this to be true.

Calvin Selfridge, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, who presided Saturday night at the closing rally of the campaign for the Democratic party in Lima, said:

"I am pleased with the clean manner in which our fight has been made locally. There need be no ill feeling after the election as a result of unscrupulous methods having been employed on either side. I have learned of nothing having been done for or against county candidates that would be subject to condemnation in a serious manner."

DIVORCE GRANTED TWO HUSBANDS

Uncontested Cases Decided Saturday—New Suit Filed.

Two husbands drew the tickets for dissolution of the marriage vows when Judge William Klinger passed out certificates of divorce Saturday. Neither case was contested. Harry Grapner was divorced from his wife, Juanita Grapner, on the grounds of desertion. He was awarded custody of their three children, 11, 9 and 5. Grapner testified his wife locked up their children to attend picture shows and lodges. She is in Clark-co, he says, and has not seen her children since March, 1918.

Elton C. Tousey was divorced from Anna Tousey on the grounds of extreme cruelty and neglect. Final settlement made by the parties was approved by the court.

Rowena Unruh entered suit in court for divorce from Ferdinand Unruh to whom she was married in June, 1915, charging desertion. She asks the restoration of her maiden name of Rowena Davis.

APPLY FOR MEDAL!

Victory Badge May be Secured At Recruiting Office

Ex-service men, have you received your victory medal yet?

If not, call at the army recruiting station on N Main-st, Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of this week and make application for it.

Sergeant Long has succeeded in securing field clerk from Toledo to come here for three days to take these applications. This, the sergeant declares, makes it unnecessary to send discharges to the war department by mail, with the risk of losing them.

Five hundred medals were issued here when a field clerk made his first visit to take applications, and it is expected at least that many more will be applied for this week.

The medals are declared by all who have seen them to be the most beautiful ever issued by the war department. Any former member of the armed forces of the U. S. entitled to one.

PUTS PRINCIPLE ABOVE PARTY

L. H. Rogers, Former G. O. P. Mayor, Will Vote for Cox

WON BY LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Harding's Position is Indefinite or One of Isolation

"You may say that I am opposed to Warren G. Harding in this election and that I stand unequivocally for the League of Nations," said L. H. Rogers, 403 Opera House Block, Saturday, to a Lima News representative.

"You may further say, if you desire, that I shall cast my vote for James M. Cox for President of the United States, for the reason that a more liberal supply will be forthcoming from the fields since the lifting of the Interstate Commerce Commission's coal priority order.

This is good news to local consumers, providing the fuel drops to that price before long.

If this decrease in price does come, Lima persons will pay around $7.50 to $7.75 per ton for soft lump.

Should the price drop to $3.50 at the mines, adding $2.75 freight rate from either the West Virginia or Kentucky areas and 20 to 25 percent profit for dealers, the price here would be cut at around 50 percent from the price it is now selling per ton.

Retailers have stated that before the existing high prices drop, the supply will have to be greater than the demand.

Washington recently announced that 2,000 cars of coal would be released for the middle west states immediately. Increased shipments should start immediately, the statement said.

LOSE A BABY CARRIAGE? IT'S AT POLICE STATION

Long after the attendants at Haloween parties which complied with Mayor Burkhardt's warning to be home by 10 o'clock Saturday night, were in dreamland, a few early morning revelers returning home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, were surprised to see a six foot policeman pushing a baby carriage thru the public square.

The cop was Patrolman Haygrove. He brought the "surpriser" from Market-st at Cherry after where it had been abandoned since 7 o'clock Saturday night. It is now safely parked at the police station and the owner may have it by calling and identifying it.

Police suspect it was carried away by boys as a Haloween prank.

SEES DANGER OF WAR

"The energy and power of all should be employed in some useful or productive work for the advancement of civilization and the betterment of mankind. War is destruction, retrogression and all preparation thereto is a useless waste of human energy and material if nations can exist in peace."

"I have waited long for Mr. Harding to say something indicating that his pulse was beating in concord with the heart beats of a nation recently convulsed in war, with its millions of fathers and mothers willing to make the greatest sacrifices if future wars might be avoided."

"Mr. Harding's position is indefinite, or one of isolating our nation, which will evidently invite war and require the making of more powder, more guns, more battleships, more of all the paraphernalia of war and in time a wall of fortifications around our land like the ancient empire of China. This is not civilization, but barbarism. It robs the multitudes to make millionaires. I cannot vote for it."

MORE COAL AND LOWER PRICES

This is Expected to Result With the Lifting of Priority Order.

At a meeting of coal operators in Cleveland a few days ago, it was stated that $3.50 is a fair price for coal at the mines and it was predicted that a more liberal supply will be forthcoming from the fields since the lifting of the Interstate Commerce Commission's coal priority order.

This is good news to local consumers, providing the fuel drops to that price before long.

FINAL EFFORT OF THE CAMPAIGN

Great Addresses in Democratic Cause Saturday Night.

B. F. WELTY, M. A. DAUGHERTY

Large Audience Hears Words That Bring Conviction

With addresses delivered Saturday night before a crowded house at Memorial Hall, warren B. Welty, chairman of the Democratic county central committee presided. Hon. M. A. Daugherty of Lancaster and Congressman B. F. Welty closed the campaign in Lima, so far as a speaking campaign is concerned.

Mr. Welty in his address, showed how propaganda had been carried on for years for the purpose of deceiving the public by telling half truths. He claimed misrepresentation by Congressmen Fess in his recent speech here, in the matter of the purchase of the Cuban sugar crop.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Welty said, "President Wilson could not purchase the 1919 Cuban sugar crop, because the Lever food control act ceased to be after the signing of the armistice and congress did not give the President authority to make the purchase until January 31, 1919, and then it was not made for the trusts and gamblers had purchased every available sugar in Cuba. That is the reason you and I paid 3 cents a pound for ten cent sugar."

Bringing into play all the fire of his eloquence, the speaker exposed the alleged conspiracy and the chief conspirators, most prominent of whom was Senator Harry Cabot Lodge, Mr. Daugherty said.

OTHER MEETINGS
The final campaign rally of the campaign in Allen-co at Spencerville Saturday night was addressed by Judge S. A. Armstrong, Joseph Fess and Mrs. J. P. Bowman, at the armory. There was a large attendance.

Hon. E. A. Akerman and Mrs. H. H. Starrett addressed the meeting Saturday evening at the Town Hall in Bluffton, closing the campaign there.

Reports from Bluffton and Spencerville are to the effect that Judge Fess' speech fully understood Congressman Welty's position on measures in behalf of the people was evidenced by the vociferous applause that punctuated his remarks.

On the League of Nations Congressman Welty said that he knew three classes of people who will not vote for the League.

"They are," he said, "those who honestly believe that war is necessary for our preservation as a nation, those who make money by the manufacture of munitions of war, and partisans who never read the text of the League and are afraid that if they would read it they might in good conscience be compelled to vote for Governor Cox. The League means the establishment of a world council to put in force between nations, as well as individuals, the commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal.' I prophecy that the League will be adopted, because millions of Christians have been praying for almost 2000 years for 'thy kingdom come, on earth as it is in Heaven.'

DAUGHERTY'S ADDRESS

In words of earnestness, with oratory that was eloquent and convincing, Hon. M. A. Daugherty of Lancaster, Ohio, unfolded to the view of the assembly the record as Mayor of Cleveland of Harry L. Davis, the Republican nominee for Governor of Ohio, which is known to most of the voters of Ohio, and after pointing out the danger to the state that would result from the election of the Cleveland man, he pointed with pride to the fine record of A. V. Donahue, the Democratic candidate.

Drawing a picture in words of the opposing candidates for United States Senator, Fr. Daugherty showed up the inconsistencies of Frank B. Willis, who delivered an address on the same platform only a few nights before, pointing out what it means to elect a reactionary United States Senator to sit in the program of a reactionary President, should Warren G. Harding be elected.

Discussing the League of Nations, Mr. Daugherty severely arraigned senatorial cabal, he charged it delayed the ratification of the treaty of peace and the adoption of the League of Nations, for political purposes only, that they might have an issue to play in the 1920 campaign.

Bringing into play all the fire of his eloquence, the speaker exposed the alleged conspiracy and the chief conspirators, most prominent of whom was Senator Harry Cabot Lodge, Mr. Daugherty said.

THREE ARRESTED

Persons registered as follows were arrested by police Saturday night on charges of drunkenness: Joe Goss, 28, 906 Elmwood; Florence Bacome, 38, 940 S. Main-st; Charley Edwards, 57, Lima.

ESTIMATES RECEIVED

City Auditor David L. Rupert Saturday received estimates as follows for October: Holmes-st paving, $1,827.35; Collett-st sewer, $18,454.75; Central Ave. sewer, $16,218.81.

MAKES APPEAL TO R. R. WORKERS

Chicago Man Reminds Those Who Toil of Pertinent Facts

FOR PEACE AND PROGRESS

Justice Impels Vote for Cox and Roosevelt on Tuesday

Jesse D. Blocher, Chicago, Ill., in a letter addressed to fellow workers throughout the United States, makes an appeal to men and women employed in the railroad service:

"As the hour for all citizens to express their choice for President is near at hand," Mr. Blocher writes, "when the destiny of this nation, the peace and prosperity of those who toil are at stake, deep thought has impelled the writer in his humble way to speak to his fellow workers in the railroad world and others, to prevent the nullification of the most constructive, patriotic and protective law enacted under the splendid administration of President Wilson.

"Heed not, fellow workers, the front porch wobbling propaganda that is sponsored by the money changers of this country, controlled and protected by a despotic clique of U. S. Senators acting as their tool;

"Who have obstructed an honorable peace with our enemies; who have disgraced and dishonored those who have given their lives across the sea that we might live and protect our homes and loved ones, who have embarrassed and disgraced the righteous acts of a liberty loving people, for the sole purpose of gaining power so their following can plunder.

WAR IS RESPONSIBLE FOR DRIVIL ON STAGE

Authority Points Out Reason for Complaint that Is Whispered From One to Another and Doesn't Appear In the Papers

Anything of a Light Character Was Accepted During the War, but Now It Is Different—Serious Plays are Coming Back

(BY FREDERICK F. SCHRADER.)

NEW YORK.—"There is a good deal of whispered complaint about too much drivil on the stage. You don't read it in the papers but you hear it in little social groups whenever the stage comes up for discussion. And you get the answer when you hear managers complain that there has been a big slump in attendance."

The speaker was a well-known dramatist who has to his credit a number of plays that are still remembered.

"Because the war was responsible for unusual conditions, which served to put anything over, the mistake was made to assume that people wanted so much light stuff and couldn't understand anything better. The error of that conclusion is being pretty easily brought home to those who acted too rashly upon it. You can fool all the public sometimes, some of the public all the time, but you can't fool all the public all the time. There is always a large conservative element that wants only what is good, and that element which is the sole value of the character has not been getting what it wants. Accordingly, I look for a re-action."

"There will be a demand for better plays, and it will depend on the public to what extent the improvement will go. In the end nobody but the paying play-goer is to blame. If he accepts everything offered without a kick he will get the kind of drama managers find most to their taste or best suited to their financial and intellectual capacity. Some managers are the worst possible judges of plays and choose by lot. The manager with a literary mind is vastly in the minority, and after all, the notion is rather unpopular with some of the producers. It takes something of a literary mind to judge a literary work. For the past three years it has been next to impossible to get a serious play accepted unless it was based upon some sensational problem, a mysterious murder, preferably, or at least some crime. The sociological question which governs or enters into life generally has been taboo."

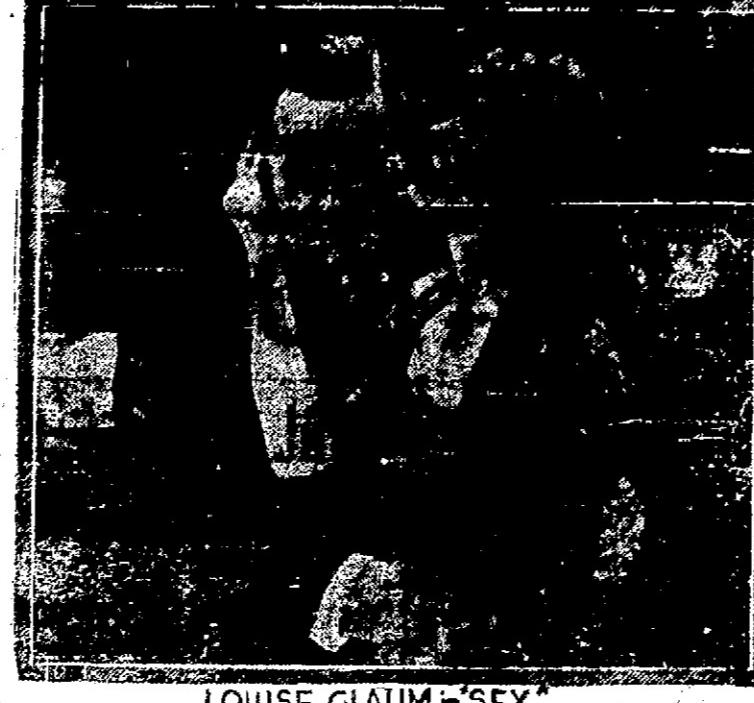

"Managers seemed to see red while the war was raging. A great many war plays were produced, but you will observe that not one of them survives. Our war plays were every one of them pretty bad, and I purposely avoided the subject, although I had every opportunity to get a production. In fact, I was asked to write a war play. I didn't do it because the right perspective was lacking."

"Nothing in our history distracted the public mind as much as the Civil War. Just as now, a host of civil war plays were written and produced. But it wasn't till thirty years after, or even more, that we got real plays dealing with the period. 'Secret Service,' 'Shepandoak' and 'Alabama' came many years after the last shot was fired and people's minds had cooled off. It will be so in regard to the present war. I look for the first real drama on that subject in about ten years, perhaps fifteen, altho some will try it sooner."

"In the meanwhile the stage will have to return to a sounder basis of dramatic work than it has occupied of late, in order to rehabilitate itself. It is not only the tightening of purse-strings, owing to economic conditions, but general lassitude and lack of interest, from which the theaters have begun to suffer. Managers will have to 'find' themselves again and also regain the confidence of the public, and even with the best efforts I doubt whether playgoing will resume a normal pace, so far as New York is concerned, under a year or more."

An excellent drama has just been produced by William A. Brady at the Bijou. Galworthy's "The Skin Game" does not dig deeply into the social problem with which it deals, but it is a serious play with a serious idea above the notion of superficial entertainment. It keeps you delightfully in suspense and it strives to get the mind of the audience focused on some fundamental principles of the sociological system. The story contrasts the established gentry with the rough and ready upstart who has no respect for the traditions of the country aristocracy. The latter is content to leave the country aspect as it inherited it from its forebears; the former insists on covering the pleasant countryside with factory chimneys, even though the gentry is smoked out. And this divergent point of view brings on the conflict between Mr. Hillcrest and Hornblower.

Hillcrest is the embodiment of easy and good-natured comfort. Hornblower is the personification of coarse-grained energy and driving to the Central Theater in about a week. Added interest is given the event by the announcement that the principal role will be taken by Alice Delysia, a French actress, who has been seen in that part in Europe.

Another foreign star is announced for the forthcoming production of a musical comedy entitled "Piccadilly to Broadway." His name is Norris Harvey, and in the cast will be that very charming singer, Miss Anna Wheaton.

Robert Mitchell, who jumped into fame in "It Pays to Advertise" and finished his conquest when he interpreted the principal role in "A Tailor-made Man," is seen in a preliminary spin over the outside circuit this season in a comedy entitled "The Champion," by Thomas Louden and A. E. Thomas.

Even Shakespeare is to have a chance this season, tho in rather a sporadic way. Henry Herbert will appear at a number of matinees in "The Comedy of Errors" and Fritz Leiber, for many years with Sothern and Mantell, will be seen later in

MOVIE PROGRAMS ARE VARIED

Melodrama, Comedy Drama, Light Drama and Westerns.

SOMETHING TO PLEASE ALL

Top Notch Artists are Billed for Local Appearance.

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
in store for movie patrons during the coming week, a program that embraces melo-drama, western pictures with all their share of thrills, and the popular light dramas. Great authors are widely represented in the week's forecast, with greater artists creating the leading roles.

Anita Stewart will be seen in one of the best pictures of the week.
It's Kathleen Norris' great story "Harriet and the Piper" in which Miss Stewart plays the part of Harriet Field. Ward Crane and Irving
Cummings have important roles in the picture starts today at the Regent.

"The Branding Iron" which was run in the form of a serial in this newspaper some time ago, and which was so popular with readers, is scheduled to appear at the Regent the last of this week. Barbara Castleton has the part of Joan Carver, and the other characters are splendid. Some beautiful western scenery is a feature of the production.

Beautiful Louise Glauum, one of the better known "vampires" of the screen, is seen today at the Lyric in her greatest picture, "Sex." In addition to being an object lesson, the picture is a veritable fashion show.
Miss Glauum wearing scores of costly gowns as only she can wear them.

Earle Williams has a splendid role in "The Romance Promoter" which opens today at the Sigma theatre. Mr. Williams is one of the most popular actors and in this production he has the support of a most competent cast.

On Wednesday, little Shirley Mason will appear in "Love's Harvest," a typical Mason film, with Shirley as sweet as ever. Raymond McKee has the leading masculine.

The last of the week will bring Tom Mix, western star, in an interesting drama "The Desert Love."
The indomitable Mr. Mix is right there with all his own enthusiasm and pep, and gives a most finished performance.

The program to be seen at the Majestic this week includes such well-known stars as Mary Pickford, Bert Lytell, Dolores Cassanelli and Bill Hart. "Lombardi, Ltd." is the feature attraction today and tomorrow, and the last two days of the week "Pollyanna" Mary Pickford's greatest picture" is scheduled to appear.

MURRAY'S FAMOUS HAWAIIANS
As an added attraction at the Sigma theatre this week, the management announces that, beginning today, Murray's Hawaiians will be featured daily. These artists number six, they sing, dance and play real Kauka music and are splendid entertainers.

One of the number, Alcides Briceneo, who sings tenor, has recently completed a number of records for the Columbia Phonograph people, another was brought to this country by Henry Ford to participate in the World's Exposition in 1916. The young lady who travels with him is a real musician and a graceful hula dancer.

HARRIET AND THE PIPER
In its book form "Harriet and the Piper" created a sensation. As a serial in the Pictorial Review it attracted wide comment and was read by thousands. Now, in its perfected form, and with Anita Stewart in the leading role, it forms one of the best pictures of the season.

It's the story of a young girl who,
in her youth, had become involved in a free-love marriage, which, however, was of short duration. She obtained a position in the family of the Richard Carters as a governess and thought her past was a dark secret, until the other man turned up.

A splendid cast, including Myrtle Stedman, Irving Cummings, Ward
Crane and Margaret Landis, support
Miss Stewart in this production.
Many beautiful gowns are displayed and a general atmosphere of gosseousness prevails throughout.

"Harriet and the Piper" starts today at the Regent.

"SEX"

"Sex," starring beautiful Louise Glauum, will be the offering today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Lyric. As Adrienne Renaud, dazzling butterfly of the Frivolite Roof, Miss Glauum is as radiant as life can be in the wild nocturnal of Manhattan. Then, as a different Adrienne, married, devoted to her husband and her home, she gives a poignant insight into the heart of the woman who is destined to pay for despoiling the happiness of another by the destruction of her own castles of dreams.

"Sex" is a powerful story, rich in dramatic and emotional touches, dealing delicately, yet frankly with one of life's greatest problems. Of itself it is a strong sermon to the thousands of frivolous creatures who fool themselves into the belief that youth lasts forever.

Of especial interest to women are the wonderful gowns which Miss Glauum wears in this picture. In all there are twenty-four of these gorgeous costumes, each representing a small fortune and all expressing the ideals of Douillet, the world famous modiste.

To Clean Wallpaper.—To remove grease spots or oil stains on wallpaper apply a paste of water and pipe clay. Leave it on all night and wash off in the morning. Repeat if necessary.

To Press Ties.—Take a shoe box, or its heavy cardboard, and cut it to fit inside of the tie—one for large end and one for small end; insert them in tie, place a damp cloth on tie and press. They turn out just like new.

SAMSON

TRADE MARK REGISTERED U. S. PATENT OFFICE

It Is Performance That Counts!

For after all, the value of the tractor you buy will depend not only on the price you pay for it, but on the quality of the work it does for you—and the amount.

The Samson Model M Tractor was designed to meet the requirements of those farmers who expect the utmost in tractor service and satisfaction.

Here is a tractor that was not built down to a price—but rather up to a quality standard which insures dependable efficiency and a long life of usefulness.

If you will consider the merits of the Samson Model M Tractor as you do any other investment—not merely from the standpoint of initial outlay, but from the actual dividends it will yield, you will appreciate its intrinsic value as well as the many ways it will make and save money for you.

From radiator to draw-bar the Samson Model M Tractor reflects quality-workmanship and practical consideration of actual farm requirements.

The four-cylinder motor, with which this tractor is equipped, furnishes positive power for both draw-bar and belt work. The cooling system consists of a large tubular radiator and a belt-driven pump, insuring a proper circulation of cool water.

Force feed lubrication is used on this tractor, giving a constant, even supply of oil which keeps all working parts continually lubricated, making for highest efficiency. The transmission is enclosed from dust and runs in a constant oil bath, insuring long life. The high-tension magneto furnishes an even, hot spark regardless of engine speed, making it possible to run the tractor at various speeds with an even flow of power.

The perfect distribution of weight, compact design and low center of gravity give the tractor great stability and insure it hugging the ground under all conditions.

The Samson also comes equipped with a governor, 18-inch pulley, platform, fenders, brackets for canopy top and regular cleats. There is no extra charge for this equipment.

If you are looking for a quality tractor for quality work, you will want a Samson. We have a few more in stock for immediate delivery. Buy yours now. You can use it this Fall and Winter for countless tasks. Then you will have it all tuned for Spring work the moment you need it.

Come in and talk it over with us; or, if you are too busy, write us—today.

INSTRUCTORS—Only within comparatively recent times have women been given the right to vote on matters of political import. However, for years, women have been voting for the Hoover-Bond store. And at this election time we're extending an invitation to all women of Lima and vicinity to vote the straight Hoover-Bond ticket, if they would assure themselves of the best possible administration of their family allowance. You don't have to register. You may vote at any time. And there are as many polling places as there are departments in the store. You may vote early, and vote often. And every time you vote you are immediately rewarded with savings in price, and the highest quality of merchandise. For the benefit of the women voters of Lima and vicinity, we are opening our election Monday morning. And you are welcome to come and cast your first vote.

OUTDOORS LIFE IS GREAT

Nutting Parties Popular Pastime
That Brings Pleasure in Many Varied Forms

Roberts-Block Marriage an Event of Tuesday Evening Next—Reside in Springfield

The most delightful part of "going nutting" is the realization that the party will be equally happy over the results whether or not they find any nuts. A fishing expedition is not perfect unless "the biggest fish ever caught in that lake" can be proudly displayed for the admiration of neighbors and friends. Searches for mushrooms in the summer are apt to be so intent upon the objects of their desire that a feeling of disappointment is present if they have no luck. The same is true of berries.

But those who start out seeking for nuts are so refreshed and uplifted by the beauty and the invigorating air of these perfect late autumn days, that they cannot be down-hearted. There are an abundance of walnuts this year, but few hickory nuts. Trees have already been robbed by small boys. Bittersweet and dangerous unnamed kinds of little red berries are found on the trips, that make artistic decoration for the home.

Even if nothing is carried home, no one can return from a visit to the woods and not retain a vision of the autumnal sun glittering on fallen leaves, a remembrance of the snap-crack of the first bitten greenery and a healthful inspiration for wide-awake, worth-while activity.

Miss Katherine Dayton, disease, in a program of folk songs in costume will appear under the auspices of the Women's Music club at the Memorial hall at 2:30 o'clock. "AMBASSADOR" DAHLIA IS DIPLOMATIC;
HAS TWO COLORS TO PLEASE FAIR BUYERS

A California beauty with one of the new "Ambassador" dahlias.

A garden dahlia which has two distinct colors has been perfected after years of patient work by J. J. Bremall of California. Possibly because it has two shades to appeal to lady's eye it has been named the "Ambassador."

The marriage of Miss Esther M. A. Kuechle, daughter of the Rev. H. C. Kuechle, and Mrs. Robert L. Clem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira F. Clem, 605 N. Jameson-ave, took place Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's father read the vows and pronounced the benediction in margin.

The rooms of the Kuechle country home near Marysville were festively decorated with decorations of autumn flowers. There were no attendants. The ceremony was read in the presence of only members of the two families, and a few friends.

The bride wore a modest suit of blue, handsomely tailored, with a blouse of like color, prettily embroidered. Her corsage was of rosebuds. For traveling, she wore a small hat of blue.

A wedding dinner was served at the conclusion of the ceremony. The tables were prettily decorated with autumn flowers. The grooms' yellow of the fall predominating.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem left in the afternoon for a week trip to Detroit and Cleveland. They will receive their friends in the Frances apartments, No. 3, W. Elm-st., after November 15.

The bride came to Lima three years ago. Before her marriage she was stenographer for the firm of Altshul Brothers and resided with Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Robbins, 628 N. Jameson-ave.

Of charming personality, Miss Kuechle is popular in a wide circle of admiring friends, who will rejoice her future home is to be in Lima.

Mr. Clem is deputy clerk of courts, quested to be present. Visiting Clem and one of his city's progressive young men. Before assuming work under his father at the court house, he was employed in the American Bank.

Upon their return to the city, he and his bride will be the recipient of numerous social arrangements planned in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira F. Clem and daughter Donna, went to Marysville for the wedding.

Mrs. Johns and Mrs. Halladay entertained at the Johns' home Tuesday evening for the pleasure of Exelyn Johns and Helen Halladay. The home was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season and the guests came prettily masked. Following a social evening refreshments were served.

The Palace of Darkened Windows

By MRS. MARTINNE BRAZIER.

The Moon bars would have been a sufficient companion for Billy Hill's minder if Robert Falconer could have seen him that Saturday evening in that same Saturday evening which Arles was essaying his daring role, for Billy Hill was sitting in the sun upon a camp stool, a white helmet upon his head, an easel before him, and upon the easel a square of blank canvas, and to Billy's left hand was a box of oil and in his right a brush. And the camp stool upon which Billy was stationed was planted directly before the small, high-arched door of the Harrison palace and in plain view of the larger door a few feet to the right.

If had all followed upon acquaintance with the one-eyed man.

Taciturn in the beginning and suspicious of Billy's associations, that dark-skinned individual had at first betrayed abysmal ignorance of all save the virtues of stolid crocodiles, but convinced at last that this was no trap, but a genuine situation from which he could profit, his greed overcame his native caution, and thru the aid of his jerky English and Billy's jagged Arabic a certain measure of confidence was exchanged.

The one-eyed man then recollect ed that he had noticed a Turkish officer and an American girl returning together to the hotel upon that Wednesday afternoon. He had stared, because truly it was amazing even for American madness—and also the young girl was beautiful. "A wild gazelle," was his word for her. The man was Captain Kerlassen. He was known to all the city—well known, he was—in a certain quarter. It was not a good way for the ladies. Yes, he had a motor car—a grand car. (Billy remembered that the fatal limousine had been gray.) It was well known that he had bought it for a foreign woman whom he had brought from overseas and installed in the palace of his fathers. Yes, he knew well where that palace was. His brother's wife's uncle was a sunuch there, but he was a hard man who held his own counsel and that of his master.

Could a girl be shut up in that palace and the world by no wile? The one-eyed man stared scathingly at such ignorance. Why not? The underworld might know, but native gossip never reached his answer.

A native must use his eyes and ears for the American. Thus his skill and the American's money they discovery could be made. The women servants talk.

That was the way, Billy agreed, and quoted to the Arab his own proverb. "A saint will weary of well-doing and a braggart of his boasts, but a woman's tongue will never stop of itself," and the one-eyed man had nodded, with an air of resigned understanding, and quoted in answer. "There is nothing so great and nothing so small, nothing so precious and nothing so foul, so that a woman will put her tongue to it," and an understanding agreement had been reached.

The one-eyed man was to loiter about the palace calling upon the brother's wife uncle if possible, and discover all that he could without arousing suspicion. And Billy determined to do a little offering himself and quicken the one-eyed man's investigations and keep watch of Kerlassen's comings and goings, and a donkey boy was hired by the one-eyed man to follow the Captain when he appeared in the street and report the place to which he went.

It was all very ridiculous, of course, Billy cheerfully agreed with himself, but by proving its own folly it would serve to astound that extra-ordinarily wagging uncleanliness of his. If he could just be sure that Little Miss Beecher wasn't tucked out of sight somewhere in the power of that barbaric scamp with his Continental veneer!

Meanwhile the Oriental methods to be employed in the finding out appealed to the young American's humor and his rash love of adventure. He was grinning as he sat there on that stool and stared at the blank canvas before him. He had

PATTERN FOR TODAY

A POPULAR DRESS STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL
Pattern #388 was employed for this model. It is cut in 3 sizes: 12, 14, and 16 years. A 14 year size requires 3 1/4 yards of 30 inch material.

Bias stripes with trimmings of field woolen would be attractive for this dress. It is equally suitable for gingham, poplin, percale, taffeta, velvettes, and gabardines.

told the rôle of artist would be an excellent screen for his luring, but he had done no painting for weeks now. He had not painted since he had a tiny ink blot upon his stomach in his home library. Indulgently visiting the redoubts of his books of Biblical characters and the best-sellers of the Holy Land, this work of art being one of the few permitted diversion of the family Sabbath. Now he reflected that the access for his brush were decidedly stifled.

With humorous interest he fell to work, seated on the porch on his camp stool, with the cemetery ahead, and trying to draw a palm without emphasizing the thought of a feather or duster. His smothering trainer made him critical of his lines and outlines, but when it came to the introduction of color he had the sensation of a shipwrecked mariner aloft upon unchartered seas.

The color that his eyes perceived was not the color which his stubborn memory persisted in resounding him was the actual hue of the events, and the color that he produced upon canvas was no kin to any of them. But it sufficed for an excuse, and he worked away, whistling cheerily, warily observant of the dark and silent facade of the old palace and alertly interested in the little groups of his occupation transiently attracted. But these little groups were all of passers-by, shawl-venders, package-deliverymen, beggars, veiled desert women with children astride their shoulders, and the live hens they were selling beneath their mantles, and these groups dissolved and drew away from him without his being able to attract any observation from them.

Nothing continued to happen. Travelers were few. Occasionally a carriage passed; once a couple of young Englishmen in polo ponies galloped by; once a poor native came down the road, moving his lame donkey-cart load of black shrouded women, with three-half-naked children bouncing on a long tailboard.

Several groups of veiled women on foot proceeded to the cemetery and back again.

The one-eyed man sauntered by in vain.

In the heat of the afternoon the wide door suddenly opened and Captain Kerlassen himself appeared on his black horse. He spurred out at a gallop, intending apparently to ride down the artist on the way, but changed his mind at the last and dashed past, showering him with dirt from his horse's hoofs. The little donkey-boy, falling down the road, started to follow him, crying out, "I am just as interested as I was when I was your partner," Mary. What is it?"

"What do you think of Tom giving up his job at the tea and coffee house and coming into the restaurant with me? We are doing a pretty good business now, and I really need someone. If he doesn't come with me I shall have to hire a man, I think. But we ain't sure about that. Tell me what you think."

"I have thought many times it was the thing for you to do, but hesitated to say so," Tom says, "but I want to do it. I just forced myself to do what had to be done."

"I was simply good for nothing," Tom says, "but I want to do it. I got up in the morning feeling just as tired as when I had gone to bed. My complexion was sallow. At times my feet would become swollen so much that I had to wear old shoes. I lost weight."

"It is no exaggeration to say that since taking Peppen I feel like a new man. I feel like working now. Housework is not the drudgery that it was."

"My appetite is much better. I do not have any dizzy spells. My complexion is clear. My bowels have been regular. I sleep fine."

"I'll come right up—no, you come over. We'll have a bite of supper while we talk," the dear old soul said when we asked her.

"I feel sliding down the hammock after hearing that!" Mary exclaimed as she hurried down to the basement.

"Don't say a word, girl. Here I give this supper on the table. I can't work and listen to you."

"Cold ham, bread, and butter, pickles, and cider," Mary checked each thing off on her fingers as Mrs. Fagin put the dishes on.

"Now eat, and talk," Mrs. Fagin said as she sat down.

Mary told her just as she had told me—that she would like Tom with her, but that they both wanted to be sure they were doing the right thing—from a business standpoint.

"You see $30 is $30," Mary said. "And Tom won't be git married only two months longer. He worries me almost to death about it."

"Mary blushed adorably.

"You don't want to git married, of course!" Mrs. Fagin remarked slyly.

"Go along with you! Tryin' to throw all the blame on the lad. It's ashamed of you I am, Mary Murphy."

"I ain't in such a hurry as he is," Mary protested.

"He's the fine lad, and you better take him with you or git him. Some other girl will be a steppin' in and takin' him away from you if you don't look out."

"If I wants to go I wouldn't stop him," Mary retorted.

I thought we were going to talk about the shop." I broke in, "not have a quarrel about Tom and some other girl. I don't believe he ever has looked at anyone else since he met you, Mary."

"There, there, Zena, we wasn't quarrelin'," Mrs. Fagin said. "I know Thomas loves Mary, and she him. They're a fine couple, and will be happy I am sure. Now let's git back to business."

"Tom earns $30 a week now. Do you think he is warranted in giving it up?" Will he sit to make as much in the shop?" I asked her.

"Indeed he will that," Mrs. Fagin often lapsed into a thick brogue.

"And more too! Thought business is makin' money, and Mary needs her mom to help her."

JUST A GIRL

A NEW PLAN FOR TOM AND MARY
Never had I left a place more gladly than I left that theatre. I felt as if Mr. Bett's eyes were boring through me, and it was torture. After Tom had taken us home, and we were alone, Mary said:

"Who was the guy, Zena? Someone you know?"

"The manager at the office. Mary. I knew she already too badly that she had embarrassed me, and I would say nothing to add to her hurt. "Never mind, Mary, we had no business to say what he did."

"What was it?"

"Oh just something about my refusing to go to lunch with him the other day. I was delighted that she had not heard his snarling remark about Tom."

"Oh, him! That jealous fellow. If I'd known it was him I would have set Tom on him."

I laughed. I couldn't help it. Mary's expression was so funny. Then I forgot all about the incident in thinking of my good fortune, and in figuring how soon I could save enough to have Mother with me.

"Say, Zena, me and Tom are going to be spliced in just two months," Mary said when she had kept quiet as long as she could. "And I want to ask you advice about something. I feel as if the shop was yours yet, you know. I can't seem to feel that you are out of it."

"I am just as interested as I was when I was your partner," Mary. What is it?"

"What do you think of Tom giving up his job at the tea and coffee house and coming into the restaurant with me? We are doing a pretty good business now, and I really need someone. If he doesn't come with me I shall have to hire a man, I think. But we ain't sure about that. Tell me what you think."

"I had dizzy spells, was drowsy and nervous and did not rest well at night."

"Much of my housework was neglected. I simply could not do all of it. I just forced myself to do what had to be done."

"I was simply good for nothing," Tom says, "but I want to do it. I got up in the morning feeling just as tired as when I had gone to bed. My complexion was sallow. At times my feet would become swollen so much that I had to wear old shoes. I lost weight."

Bellefontaine-Ave Resident Says

Famous Medicine Has Merited Her Endorsement.

Praise for Peppen is contained in a statement given by Mrs. J. P. McKinley, of 173 Bellefontaine-Ave, Lima.

Mrs. McKinley is a member of Epworth M. E. Church and taught Sunday school class for eleven years. Her statement follows:

"For many years I have suffered with stomach trouble.

"I had very severe attacks of indigestion. I was very nervous and could not get restful sleep. Night after night I would be awake and many times I would have to arise and sit all night.

"I had little appetite. I was tired all the time and lacked energy.

"She taking Peppen I sleep much better. More appetite, more ambition and stronger.

"I was not nearly as nervous as I was. My appetite has been greatly improved.

"My case of indigestion has not been entirely relieved yet but I am going to continue taking the medicine as I have faith that it will relieve the indigestion just as it has helped me so much in other ways."

BIG CELEBRATION BY REVELERS

Fun Makers Observe Hallowe'en in Gay Fashion Here

Ghosts and goblins, the Queen of Hearts, the Italian maid, the Indian girl and the pickiniminy vied with each other on Lima streets Saturday night in the gal celebration of Hallowe'en.

Confetti was everywhere and the occasion took on the air of a mardi gras. The fun-making began early in the evening and continued until the streets were deserted.

Theatrolares were crowded with persons masked in all sorts of curious costumes. Sidewalks were turned into a galaxy of fun-makers, who provoked many laughs from passing pedestrians. Good-natured rivalry existed and the ordinary fellow was prone to wish he were young enough to wear a false face, with the inimitable whiskers.

Mischief makers were present in full force and at times annoyed those in brilliant garb by pricking with pins, tripping and other jokes.

Few persons in the residential districts complained to police that property was being molested.

Those who contemplated celebrating Hallowe'en by promenading in their grotesque make-ups in the beams of Lima's new boulevard lighting system, were victims of disappointment.

Due to failure of the cable to arrive, Lima's "white way" failed to shine forth. The only evidence revelers had of the new downtown lighting system was the iron standards along the sidewalks of Main and High Streets.

REPORTS COLLISION

John Yant, 132 Hazel Ave., reported to the police station at 7:30 Saturday night after colliding with an automobile at Main and Vine. Yant told police he was going west on Vine, and the other man who was driving from the west on Main in a Ford touring car, made an improper turn to the north on Main. Yant said the fenders of both machines were badly damaged but no one was hurt.

Don't Neglect That Cough or Cold

A Home Remedy That Can Be Depended Upon.

No one can afford to neglect a cough or cold. Neglect often causes serious results. The best time to doctor is when the first indications of a cough or cold appear. Coughing weakens the delicate membrane of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This makes a fertile field for the development of germs. The cold, flu's or tonsilts germs should be killed before they have time to get embedded into this delicate membrane. Get three ounces of Glandu-Pine. Mix this with enough syrup or honey to make a pint and you have a safe, sure and reliable remedy to use. It takes hold of a cough in a hurry. The first dose opens the air cells and makes you breathe deep and easy. Glandu-Pine is easily prepared. Directions accompany each bottle. It tastes well and can be given to young children.

Don't be careless, but begin today to safeguard yourself against coughs and colds. A dependable remedy at hand means a great deal to any family. Remember the name, Glandu-Pine. You can get it of your druggist, or it will be sent you by the Glandu-Aid Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Six masses will feature the observance of All Souls' day Tuesday at St. John's Catholic church.

One of these masses, at 6 o'clock, will be especially for workmen.

Other masses will be said at 6, 6:30,

7, 7:45 and 9. This latter mass will be the funeral mass.

All Saints' day on Monday will see the celebration of three masses, at 5, 7, and 8:30 o'clock. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock, there will be the rosary, sermon and benediction.

Three masses will be said Monday at St. Rose church in observance of

All Saints' day. These will be at 5, 7 and 9 o'clock.

The usual November visit to Gothic cemetery will be made, weather permitting, on Sunday, November 7. The public devotions will begin at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

BOYS OUT ON BOND

Robert Dunne and Darrell McCarty, both of Mozzie, are held Thursday by Sheriff C. W. Baxter on secret indictments to be released on $100 bond each Saturday. The boyer charged with mistreating a girl, residing near Westminster. Both have been confined in the Allen-co all three arrested.

GABRIEL SNUBBERS

A device that keeps you on the seat when roads are rough

HOW IT WORKS

As the car springs compress, the spring within the coil expands and takes up the slack in the belt, then as the rebound commences, the coils of belt begin to tighten and create friction on the band of brass between them, thus forming a resistance that increases gradually as the coil compresses the spring within it. This action steadies and controls the car springs, and causes them to remain in their normal position gradually without jerk or abrupt stop. The result is the occupants move with the seat instead of being bounced or jolted from it.

Aids to Beauty

Attractive jewelry is always an aid to the appearance of a woman. And men may add to their high class look, by using the right jewelry aids.

Good looking rings help to draw attention to good looking hands. A beautiful neck may be made more beautiful with the right necklace.

Pretty rings and pins and earrings and bracelets and other such things are admired for themselves when worn, but that is not all. They cause the wearer to be admired.

We have the right article of jewelry for you.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

To the business man, retail or wholesale; to the manufacturer; to the commission man; to the trucking company, the Ford Model T One Ton Truck makes an irresistible appeal because it has in its chassis all the merits of the original Ford car; the wonderful Ford Model T motor, the dependable Vanadium steel chassis and the manganese bronze worm-drive. A strongly built truck that serves satisfactorily and lasts in service. If these statements were not true, the demand for Ford Trucks wouldn't be so constantly on the increase. Any of the Authorized Ford Dealers mentioned below will be pleased to take your order for one or more Ford Trucks, will see that you get reasonably prompt delivery, and will give you an after service that insures the constant service of the truck. But don't wait too long. Get your order in promptly.

CLEAN FIGHT, W. W. DURBIN SAYS

State Chairman Claims League Sentiment Sweeps On

D. O. P. TRIES TO HIDE ISSUE

Disclaims Connection With Reports Concerning Harding

COLUMBUS — Following is a statement given out Saturday night by W. W. Durbin, chairman of the Democratic executive committee: "Republicans are making an effort to bide the issues of the campaign and to divert attention of the voters, thereby hoping to stem the rising tide that is sweeping the country for the League of Nations by crying aloud about the circulation of reports concerning Harding and charging them to Democratic committees."

The Democratic committees of Ohio have had no connection with circulation of such reports. If the Republican committee will investigate it, it will find that these reports were put in circulation in this state during the "Wood" campaign and in other states of the union. Republicans themselves are reaping the harvest of the seed they planted earlier.

REPORTS AT CONVENTION

"At the Republican national convention the same reports were given circulation by Republicans opposed to Harding.

"We have fought a clean fight for the League of Nations and Cox and Roosevelt in Ohio and will continue to do so. We have fought clean in spite of the fact that those who are conducting the "campaign" of Senator Harding in the national field as well as in the state field, have permitted and indulged and encouraged one of the most vicious, reprehensible, and malicious campaigns of slander and scandal ever conducted in America. It has never been equalled. It has been organized and fostered by those in authority. Now, when something appears concerning their candidates, which was brought out by Republicans, they hold their hands to high Heaven and proclaim their innocence."

"The truth is that the house of cards they have so cunningly built has fallen about their heads. Now, in desperation they attempt this indefensible attack."

CARD OF THANKS
We desire to express our thanks to our many friends and neighbors whose sympathy was extended to us during our recent bereavement, in the loss of our son and brother. For the many beautiful floral offerings, especially those from the students of South High school and the men at the B. and O. shops, we are indeed grateful. The singers and also to Rev. Dudley we express our thanks for his sincere kindness. Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Eaton and family.

Your Child's Eyes!

NERVE STRAIN caused by defective vision in children is often more than their developing constitutions will stand.

It retards them in their studies, depresses their ambition and injures their health.

If you parents with suspicions regarding your children's eyes will bring them to us, we'll make a thorough examination and set your doubts at rest.

This dependable knowledge is valuable.

GLEN L. WALLACE

Republican candidate for Clerk Common Pleas.
There are many homes and business houses in Lima and vicinity that are protected by insurance policies sold by Glen L. Wallace of the Masonic building. Mr. Wallace has served his patrons well and has personally seen to it that these patrons have been honestly and fairly treated in every transaction. Now he comes before the voters as a candidate for the office of clerk of the Common Pleas Court, pledging the same loyal service and interest.

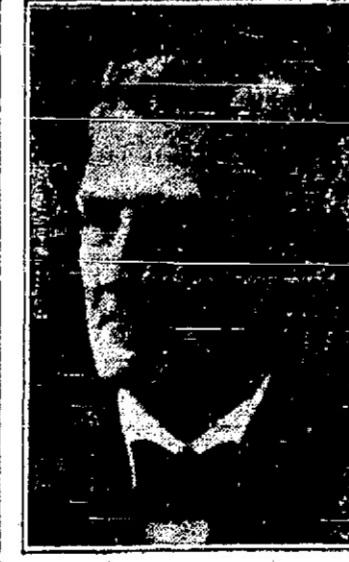

Mr. Wallace was born in Mahoning County on Nov. 15, 1870. At the age of 10 years his family moved to Allen county and Glen L. Wallace received his education in the Lima public schools.

As Clerk of the Board of Control he performed his duties with much credit to his integrity and straightforward character.

Republican candidate for County

Treasurer

The election of Harry E. Botkins as Treasurer of Allen county will place in office a man of integrity, high character and conscientious principles.

He is recognized by Republicans and Democrats alike as being well qualified for the position and having a reputation above reproach.

Harry E. Botkins has lived in Allen County all his life, being born on March 24th, 1878. He received his education in the public schools of Lima. He was married to Alma Cotter and has two boys in Lima schools.

Mr. Botkins is well known throughout the county, having come in contact with many of the Library and Boarding schools. For the past eight years he has been treasurer of the local lodge of Elks. He is also a member of the Knights of Pythias. A member of Trinity Methodist Church. The only political office he has held was that of assistant secretary of Lima Water Works. Mr. Botkins was for three years employed in the office of the L. E. & W. Ry. and for three years with the Lima Locomotive Works.

NEWS OF THE WORLD AS SEEN BY THE CAMERA

NEW PASSENGER AIR "SHIPS" GIVEN THE NAMES OF COLUMBUS' CARAVELS

The "Plata" ready to leave New York for Key West on first trip.

Two-passenger air liners designed off recently from New York for Maria. The company owning for passenger and mail service the flight to Key West. They were the planes has a contract to carry named after two of the ships used mail between Key West and Havana "hoped" by Columbus, "Plata" and "Santa" Havana.

GERMAN WOMEN, RECOVERING FROM WAR STRAIN, INTERESTED IN FASHIONS

We care always reading about what petite Marie wears at the Parisian races and now comes word that Gretchen des Deutschen Maedchen is also attending the races at the Grunewald race track in Germany. By the looks of the photographs the little Marie has nothing on ziemliche Gretchen when it comes to smart and fashionable clothes.

All the frocks and wraps in this group of five might take their place beside the Paris styles. At the extreme left is a white frock trimmed with monkey fur at the neck and cuffs. There is a row of buttons that run from neck to hem and a pretty wavy design in black runs thru the material. To the right of this frock is a suit and cape combination of navy taffeta and cloth with a deep collar of Australian opossum. The hat is a draped turban trimmed with the unruly ostrich feathers which droop over the face. At the extreme right is a smart cape which attracted especial attention. It is of striped accordion pleated material matching the frock which is worn with it. A large feathered bicorne hat is worn with it. The coat to the left is a simple but effective model with a high collar and front panel with fringe and button trimming.

A black cloth coat dress is shown below. It is simply made but gorgeously trimmed with silver embroidery. A tasseled cord marks the waistline.

MEXICANS STRIKE

VERA CRUZ—A general strike which dock workers hoped would spread throughout Mexico, was declared here Saturday. Business was paralyzed.

The strike grew out of the dock workers' withdrawal from work when two gangs were discharged for alleged connivance with silk thieves. To strike breakers were killed.

"MISSING LINK" IS TO BE SOUGHT BY NEW EXPEDITION

Roy Chapman Andrews, noted explorer, will lead the expedition of the museum of national history, Asia Magazine to Asia in search of the "missing link." The promoters and noted persons have supplied a fund of $250,000 for the trip. It is believed the expedition will bring back the greatest natural history in the world.

MEXICAN GENERAL IS NOW IN EUROPE

Gen. Pablo Gonzales, Gen. Pablo Gonzales, famous Mexican leader, left Mexico after the revolution, not being in accord with President Huerta. He is visiting the Mexican colonies of Europe for political purposes. This photograph was snapped at the railroad station of Berne, Switzerland, while the general was on his way to Italy.

NOVEL BLOUSE FOR WINTER SUIT WEAR

If you can tear yourself away from the pretty frocks and wraps and take a look at blouses you will find some very enchanting models which seem to be new in ideas both as to design and material. If you have bought one of the new fashion suits you will be sure to want to look about the blouse shop for the suit is not complete until a costume blouse accompanies it. The overblouse, as is plainly evident, is the most popular style and it is presented in many more variations than one expects.

Here is one of the most unusual styles seen this season. It is an overblouse of white georgette trimmed with red ducetyn. A very striking combination to wear with a blue suit. The ducetyn is stitched in white and forms the cuffs, an unusual collar and front panel and the belt. Long white fringe finishes the front panel. The gilet of the georgette is stitched in red. The peplum, except for the tab in front, is plain and slightly gathered. Worn with the suit coat this blouse makes a very attractive and distinctive vest effect.

GLEN ELLISON

Famous Scotch Comedian Coming
Announcement made Saturday by B. S. Porter & Son, Old Reliable Music Dealers, that they had closed a contract with Glen Ellison, the famous Scotch comedian, for a concert at Memorial hall on Thursday evening, November 18th.

Mr. Ellison who is one of the most popular comedians on the American stage today, possesses an extra fine baritone voice, and has proved himself to be a master of art in singing the Scotch songs such as those made famous by Sir Harry Lauder, who is known all over the world, in fact there are only two famous Scotch comedians today, and they are Mr. Ellison and Mr. Lauder.

It was also announced that this concert is to be complimentary and to be presented to the music lovers of Lima and surrounding county by B. S. Porter & Son. Details as to when tickets can be obtained will be announced later.

"SEND THE CHILDREN'S SHOES TO BE REPAIRED" —

We take particular pains with school children's shoes because we know that healthy, active youngsters need footwear of strength and durability. And your children will look spic and span when the shoes that were orn at heel, toe and uppers come back so well repaired as to look new.

Our prices are very moderate considering the quality of our work. We call for and deliver.

COMPLETE MARKETS---REAL---ESTATE---FINANCE---BUSINESS---PRODUCE

BUYERS' HARVEST IS HERE NOW

UPWARD SWING IS PREDICTED

Low Level Reached and May Continue For Time

To the many doubting Thomas among buyers, it can now be generally stated that we are in the low cycle of prices on commodities of every kind, from wearables to furniture.

Judgments and the trend generally is still downward in wholesale markets, but retailers have gone farther than wholesalers in the way of converting invoices into cash. This is a buyers' harvest, were it not for the fact that many people in a declining market, get the mistaken idea that if prices are falling they will continue to fall. There is always a price below which merchandise will not go and that price has been reached in the best judgment of the financial editor of the News.

NOW IS TIME TO BUY

In the same way it may be stated that now is in all probability the time to buy securities and even real estate. To buy in a low period and sell in a high period was the old adage of Russell Sage and while it may take several months to start prices upward, in general lines such an condition will be surprising.

Glancing over the entire list of commodities but rare exceptions can be pointed out which have not, as yet, felt the decline. Hardware, oils and newsprint may be cited as exceptions. Lumber which was slow to start down and the hard-wood market especially is to be noted for its recent slump. Steel may not go lower. It is doubtful if it does for the U. S. Steel Co. has been running on a low-price level since last March. Cottons, silks, gauze leathers and lace are strong in some instances. Metal product costs Copper was cited at 14¢ during the week, yet the jobbers are said to be buying even for the less modern.

SURFONY OF BARGAINS

Locally, buyers are in the midst of bargains that will not be duplicated, in our opinion, after the first of the year. Clothing, shoes, ladies' ready-to-wear, cotton and silk goods are all retailing in Lima under the new price levels and lower. Lanta merchandise is selling in some instances much lower than it can be produced and this will probably continue well into the Christmas season.

MARSHALL FIELD REVIEW

Marshall Field and Company, in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was less than during the corresponding week of last year.

Orders from salesmen on the road were not as large in volume as for the same week last year. There were fewer customers in market.

Collections showed a slight decrease over the previous week.

MONEY REMAINS TIGHT

Money remains tight, with local banks charging 5% per cent to customers, and eight per cent for short-time loans and to non-depositors. Building & Loans are making very few commitments except in one institution, which has always held strong reserves and is loaning now where others are not. Deposits are slowly starting to climb, although bank clearings for the week fell off from last year, indicating the hold back of buyers. Bank clearings for the month were $2,000,000 under a year ago and for the week were $280,000 less than a year ago. As clearings are estimated to represent 70 per cent of gross buying power it can be seen that buyers are still laboring under the belief that further reductions are to come. In this, we believe they are wrong. Canadian farmers continue to sell wheat in heavy volumes and Americans still hold, while bankers are advising selling.

The bottom has been reached: such a pin here. Dorman condition will probably continue even after election and well into the year-end, but on the whole we expect to see stiffening thereafter.

BRINGING UP FATHER.

By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

Father objected to his daughter's swain—a fact of which the young man was well aware. But the lure of love is strong and the woos

"Oh, dad!" wailed the fair Phyllis as the old chap limped into the sitting room. "I hope you haven't hurt Arthur!"

"Hurt him?" growled father as he sank into a chair and nursed his right foot. "No, I haven't hurt him! But if he comes here again with bricks in his coat-tail pockets I'll kill him!"

"Father—Now who can tell just what is meant by the saying, 'All men are created equal?'" We all know that some of us are born with wealth and many other advantages not shared by all.

"We are all created with an equal need for clothes," suggested little Johnny.

"Good heavens!" said the visitor to the station cabby, "whatever makes your horse so thin?"

"Well, it's like this," replied the cabby. "At night I tosses up to see if he shall have a feed of hay, and the old horse has just lost three right runnins."

LEAGUE IN NUTSHELL

WHAT IS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS?

It is a union of the civilized nations of the world, (formed by the Treaty of Versailles)—a sort of international society with headquarters in Switzerland.

WHAT IS ITS PURPOSE?

The league seeks to bring about world peace—

- (a) By settling disputes between nations by peaceful adjustment instead of by war;
- (b) By pledging each member nation gradually to reduce armies and navies (this means, of course, the reduction of taxes and the high cost of living);
- (c) By making treaties public so that all citizens may know what their governments are doing;
- (d) By undertaking to better working conditions and the welfare of women and children everywhere.

WHO BELONGS TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS?

Forty-one nations have already joined—all the principal countries (aside from the former enemy nations who are allowed to come in later)—EXCEPT THE UNITED STATES AND BOLSHEVIST RUSSIA. Any self-governing nation may be admitted, and any member may withdraw after two years' notice.

WHY IS THE UNITED STATES OUTSIDE?

Because a Republican Senate, ignoring the fact that our American boys fought and died in a "war to end war," has twice wilfully refused to ratify the Peace Treaty, and so bring the United States into this league for peace.

HOW IS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS RUN?

(a) By an assembly of delegates from each nation in the league, for discussion of international affairs.

The assembly may recommend action to the several home governments.

(b) By a council of nine delegates (the United States, Great Britain, Italy, France and Japan, to be always represented) which inquires into the causes of disputes and makes recommendations for their peaceful settlement. The council is the real governing body of the league.

ALL POSITIONS IN THE LEAGUE, INCLUDING THAT OF SECRETARY, ARE OPEN EQUALLY TO MEN AND WOMEN.

WHAT ARE THE RULES FOR VOTING?

On all vital points the vote must be unanimous in both bodies. In the assembly each separate nation and self-governing colony has one vote. In the council every nation represented, large or small, has a single vote and a single delegate. Great Britain, with all her colonies and about one-quarter of the world's population, has just one ballot.

IS THE UNITED STATES OUT-VOTED?

NO, the United States with its one vote has power to veto any important proposal of which it does not approve either in the assembly or in the council.

HOW DOES THE LEAGUE SETTLE DISPUTES?

All nations in the league agree to submit to arbitration disputes threatening war. Six months are given to investigate and report. Not until three months later (giving time for thought and cooling off!) may a member actually go to war, and not then, if one nation in the quarrel accepts the recommendations made.

BUT WHAT IF A NATION GOES TO WAR?

Then the nations in the league agree to cut off the offender entirely from all trade and intercourse. The council may "advise" them (only that) to contribute a small share of armed force, subject, however, to the approval of their own governments.

WHAT IS ARTICLE X?

This article states that members of the league guarantee to respect one another's territory and protect it from external attack (the same principle as our own Monroe Doctrine which has made for peace on this continent for nearly a hundred years). It means that if our country is in peril she may call upon other nations in the league for aid. Article X does not apply to domestic troubles, such as revolution or civil war, unless the peace of the world is thereby disturbed.

CAN THE UNITED STATES DECLARE WAR WITHOUT CONSENT OF CONGRESS?

NO, Congress by our Constitution is the only power in this country having authority to declare war. But first, within the league itself, the United States by its right of veto may refuse to enter any war.

WHY DO WOMEN WANT A LEAGUE OF NATIONS?

Because it saves the mothers of the future from sacrificing their sons to war. Because it is the only practical working plan to replace conflict, bloodshed and sorrow by peace and good-will.

A vote for Cox is a vote to go into the League of Nations.

WILSON, BROKEN, MAY QUIT IF GOV. COX IS ELECTED

SOLDIERS PATROL CITY OF CORK

Ready for Action as MacSwiney Lies in State

BODY VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Funeral Postponed as Protest Against Government

CORK — Terence MacSwiney's funeral was postponed Saturday night until Monday. The change was made by the former lord mayor's relatives as a protest against government action in diverting the body from the planned journey thru Dublin.

An appeal was taken to authorities also to lighten the funeral restrictions by permitting all who cared to do so, to join the procession and follow the casket to "MacCurtain circle" in Cork's beautiful cemetery.

Officials had announced that the parade would be limited to one-fourth of a mile in length.

All southern Ireland appeared in review Saturday before the body of Terence MacSwiney — clad in the uniform of a brigadier general of the Irish republican army.

Thousands crowded for places in the line that serpentine about the city hall, where the body lay in its open casket banked with flowers and wreaths and draped with the orange, green and white flag of the Sinn Fein.

Thousands crowded for places in the line that serpentine about the city hall, where the body lay in its open casket banked with flowers and wreaths and draped with the orange, green and white flag of the Sinn Fein.

GUARDS READY FOR ACTION

It was a solemn crowd and orderly. But around the edges rode mounted soldiers and guards from the hated "black and tan" forces. Motor lorries rumbled over cobblestone pavements, their engines running ceaselessly, ready for an emergency. Machine guns poked their noses from the armored sides. Soldiers and police had their weapons ready for instant use.

Among the flowers that covered MacSwiney's coffin were many bearing cards indicating they had been sent by sympathizers from Washington, New York and Chicago.

A bodyguard of Sinn Fein soldiers stood in silence at the casket as the thousands passed thru the rotunda and on thru the building to join outside. No arms were permitted and none of the hundreds of Sinn Fein soldiers in the crowd was permitted to carry arms or to wear uniform. The Republican colors also were barred.

CROWD SPRINGS UP

The only exception to the rule was MacSwiney garbed in the greenish-gray uniform with the insignia of high rank. No objection was made to the flag which was spread over the casket on arrival in the city hall Friday night by relatives.

The crowd which gathered under the watchful eyes of the police and soldiers, sprang up overnight. It seeped in from the country roads, by rail and water.

Among the mourners were the immediate relatives of the lord mayor and the most prominent leaders of the Sinn Fein. Only those especially wanted by the police were absent.

PLANS FOR FUNERAL

Plans for the solemn services Monday when the last mass is to be said over the embalmed form of the lord mayor were almost completed Saturday night. They will be held in the cathedral. The demand for admission was so great that the strictest regulations were made to accommodate them. As in London, it was expected it would be necessary to admit the mourners by ticket. But when in London the police aided in handling the crowd and forming the procession, armed only with their truncheons, here were grim-faced soldiers, armed with rifles, revolvers and backed by motor cars and machine guns ready for instant action.

Government officials denied they expected trouble, but they feared some excitable person might start a demonstration which would spread if it were not quickly controlled.

Sinn Fein leaders were told to recognize that danger and to have warned all to use great care.

At a late hour Saturday night the mourners were still filing past the cathedral.

Other improvements in this section of the park east of Charles and north of State-st, the service director said, will be grading and filling along State-st. Fifteen truck loads of earth taken from the Collett-st sewer will be used in making this hill, he said.

This improvement, McClain declared, is in keeping with the general plan for the park.

Employees of the service department have not yet completed the work of setting out several thousand flower beds in Faurot and Lincoln parks, McClain said. This work will be continued next week.

FATHER TOTH TO RETURN

The Rev Father William A. Tobin, assistant rector of St. Rose Catholic church, has been giving a series of retreats at Bowling Green the past week. Father Tobin will conclude his labors there Sunday night. He will return to Lima some time Monday.

FROM FLANDERS FIELD

BY TEASDALE RANDOLPH

HOW are you going to vote, Mother—
What are you going to do?—
With the League of Peace and Brotherhood
When the whole world looks at you?—
When you mark your ballot November two,
Mother o' Mine, I ask of you?

Are you going to stand with me, Mother,
As I have stood strong for you?—
When I gave my life for all mankind
In the wood of grim Belleau?
When you mark your ballot November two,
Mother o' Mine, what will you do?

I fought for America—yes, Mother,
That is exactly true;
But I fought to make the whole world free
In the wood of grim Belleau?
Do you want it fought over?—well, I'm for you.
But, Mother, pray hard on November two!

Pray for the world that God loves, Mother,
Just as I know you will do;
Pray for my gallant chief Mother—
He was my president, too!
Pray for the peace which he signed for you, Mother o' Mine, on November two!

Oh, I know you'll vote right, Mother
In the booth on November two;
You'll vote as I fought, for the world, Mother.
That's what I know you'll do.
Vote that my flag shall never retreat—
Vote for the league wheresoever the nations meet!

Heed not the party hordes, Mother—
They are so deaf and blind;
Hark to the voice of God, Mother,
Pleading for all mankind!
Mother o' Mine, beloved and true,
Vote with your boy on November two!

WANTS ONLY HIS PROMISE TO MOTHERS FULFILLED

President Willing to Quit Public Affairs When Assured Pledge Will be Kept, Nominee Tells Chicago
Audience In Climax of Campaign

Pleads for League of Nations and Compares Situation to Parable of the Good Samaritan—Cheered as He Leads Torchlight Parade

CHICAGO.—Governor James M. Cox, reaching the climax of his trans-continental campaign travels here in a series of meetings Saturday, declared that President Wilson "would be perfectly willing to conclude his participation in all public affairs," as soon as he was definitely assured that the United States would enter the league of nations.

With the governor declaring that his election would be a mandate to the senate to ratify the peace treaty with reservations, and the president having endorsed his candidacy, the statement left the inference that in event of a democratic victory next Tuesday, Wilson, because of his poor health, would resign.

Cox however, refused to enlarge upon his statement, which was made to a meeting of women.

PRESIDENT THINKS ONLY OF HIS PROMISE TO MOTHERS OF THE UNITED STATES

"The president thinks of one thing and one thing only," the governor said: "He talks of it more than anything else and it is this: He gave a promise to the mothers of America and that promise has not been kept. I am certain that if he knew definitely that promise would be kept, he would be perfectly willing to conclude his participation in all public affairs, either officially or privately."

The governor had a full day of whirlwind campaigning, presenting in six speeches a composite summary of his claim to the presidency. He attacked Harding's "fourteen flip-flops on the league issue," urged a program of social welfare, outlined his labor views, advocated progressive government by enumerating what he believes would be the results of Senator Harding's election and charged that "big business" would make a Republican administration "a mere puppet."

MOORE SEES COX WINNER

YOUNGSTOWN.—E. H. Moore, representative manager for Governor Cox, declared Saturday that the result of the election Tuesday is still in doubt. He said the Democrats have 217 electoral votes assured and the Republicans 172. Aside from these, he asserted, 53 are apparently headed for Cox while 75 will probably go to Harding. In New Jersey, with 14, he thought the prospects are an "even break." He called Cox's chances of success "highly probable, considering the swing to Cox now in possible."

which he said was recommended twice by President Wilson.

Cox was to leave for his home in Dayton at midnight and was to make his final speech of the campaign at Toledo Monday night. Tuesday, he will vote at Dayton and as returns come in that night, he expects to be in his newspaper office.

GIVEN BIG OVATION

Governor James M. Cox Saturday night concluded his appeal for the League of Nations by reading the parable of the Good Samaritan to a crowd of 12,000 that packed the Coliseum. An ovation that lasted eighteen minutes greeted the Democratic candidate.

As Cox rode from a vest pocket Bible, the audience listened in tense silence and broke into tremendous applause when he finished.

The parable, Cox said, was the answer of Christ in those who 2,000 years ago preached selfishness and national isolation.

Cox read from the Bible after claiming that Senator Harding was "turning his back on suffering throughout the world."

Fifteen thousand persons crowded the Coliseum when Gov. Cox appeared to make the closing speech of a strenuous day spent in Chicago. Oaths of "Jimmie" were heard all over the hall during an ovation which lasted 18 minutes.

MRS. COX INTRODUCED

The demonstration reached its length when Mrs. Cox, smiling happily, was introduced to the crowd by being escorted to the side of her husband.

Time and again applause and cheers greeted the words of the Democratic candidate.

In opening his address, Cox denied that Senator Harding had been nominated in the Coliseum.

"The Republican candidate was nominated behind closed doors from the scene of the Republican convention," Cox said.

"The Republican convention had the choice of a few men with reservations."

Cox again denounced Sen. Lodge as "the arch conservative of the ages." Prolonged hiss and groans came from the audience when the governor mentioned Cleveland Party Crushed as Interurban Hits Auto.

CLEVELAND — Four Cleveland men were crushed to death when a speeding interurban car, bound for Akron, crashed into an automobile stalled on the railway track just southeast of Bedford.

The automobile was broken into bits as the interurban dragged it for fifty yards.

The dead: J. J. Urkasz, 21; John S. Arczki, 20; Stephen Hedges, 22; Edward L. Esti, 20.

The men were returning to Cleveland from Akron.

Cleveland Company Officials Held Up by Bandits.

CLEVELAND — Three automobile bandits held up and robbed two officers of the Ohio Provision company Saturday and escaped with a payroll of nearly $4,000 after their victim in another machine had pursued them more than two miles.

The robbery was staged as the two men were driving with the money from a Clark-ave bank to the company's offices.

The victims of the holdup were E. I. Schneider, secretary of the company, and Otto Hansel, sales manager.

"They will tell you that you want change. Instead of a change, we believe that you will prefer to have the change still jingling in your pockets."

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS A LEAGUE AGAINST WAR

COX FOR IT. In his speech of acceptance at Dayton, Aug. 7, Cox said: "I favor going in." And

HARDING IS AGAINST IT. Harding, after much wobbling, finally made this definite assertion in his speech at Des Moines, Oct. 7: "I favor staying out."

The World War would have been prevented in 1914 if a League of Nations then had been in existence, just as future wars will be prevented if all the nations go into one league. But America can enjoy the advantages and protection of the league only by joining the league. The only countries outside the league besides America are Mexico, Turkey, Germany, Austria, Russia and Costa Rica.

VICTORY SEEN BY BOTH PARTIES

RICH MAN HELD BY KIDNAPERS

Wealthy Arkansas Citizen is Seized in St. Louis

FORCED TO GIVE UP $25,000

Escapes While Guard Sleeps— Tells His Experiences

ST. LOUIS—John Alexander, wealthy Fort Smith, Ark., businessman, had body and mind bruised to bear out his account of a week spent with alleged kidnapers who he charged forced him to sign a check for $25,000.

Alexander said Saturday night he believed Mrs. Margaret O. Tabor, St. Louis, held prisoner with him in a farm house on the outskirts of St. Louis, was one of the principals in the alleged kidnapping plot. He claimed he had previously befriended Mrs. Tabor.

Alexander, unbroken, berated and abused and struggled into the country side it office Saturday and related his experiences. He said he escaped from his captors early Saturday while the guard slept. He begged three farmers to free his hands before his bonds were loosened. People thought him insane he said.

Mrs. Tabor was freed after Alexander escaped and still in her night clothes was taken to a home here, she said. She said she was dressing to make a report of the affair when police reached her home. She was detained pending an investigation.

Alexander is a statement to police Saturday night said he arrived in St. Louis last Monday to transact business with Mrs. Tabor. Her divorced husband was his superintendent at Fort Smith. Alexander said, explaining he had handled real estate deals for the woman. Even then claiming to represent Mrs. Tabor met him on his arrival. Alexander said they spirited him to a farm house where he said he was bound and gagged.

FORCED TO SIGN CHECK

Mrs. Tabor explained she was abducted Sunday night and taken to a same farm now in the cold she was asked to see Alexander Monday.

The kidnappers beat Alexander until he agreed to sign a check for $25,000, Mrs. Tabor told police.

SENATOR HARDING, in discussing the Irish problem, tacitly implied that he had been a part of the Senate's record of sympathy when the record and facts disclose that when he did not dodge a vote relating to Ireland, he voted measures tending to sympathetic settlement.

FACTS MISREPRESENTED

A distinguished female citizen of the Republican committee asserted that the league under Article I, sanctioned and legalized the white slave traffic, and never apologized for this glaring misrepresentation.

SENATOR HARDING, in one speech attacked the administration for allowing failure to enforce the prohibition law, when the records disclosed that in a Senate speech, he had predicted that the law could never be enforced in this country and the facts were that the law was being enforced by the federal government.

A woman speaker uttered snarling about the president of the United States, using language which I would repeat, despite her family connection with great men in the recent history of the nation.

A blabbering and scurrilous cartoon, drawn by the opponent cartoonist of the Republican national committee was used in its official and semi-official organization, lampooning the Immaculate Conception to make a partisan argument. A forged article from a fictitious publication, the "National Catholic Register" was sent broadcast by Republican agents to Masons and non-Catholics in an attempt to stir up protest against the Democratic ticket with the argument that the temporal power of the pope and Democratic success were closely allied.

THE OLD ADD 34 VOTES

We also have a splendid opportunity to carry North Carolina and Oklahoma. This makes the probability of 34 additional votes.

We will have greatly increased majorities in the house and a substantial majority in the senate.

The only states certainly Democratic are Kansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia, Texas, and Virginia.

The electorate of America is simply waiting for the opportunity to voice a protest against inefficiency, extravagance and autocracy in government and to express complete confidence in the constructive ability of the Republican party in a manner that will be heard around the world.

BY GEORGE WHITE

(Chairman Democratic National Committee.)

Cox and Roosevelt will win. They will have a party majority in the Senate and House.

It sums up my conclusions based on detailed reports from all state chairman by wire and telephone. I have spent the last three days in checking these reports, and I see no reason to alter my forecast on Friday, in which I predicted a certain victory for the Democratic ticket.

VICTORY FOR AMERICA

But, in perfect fairness, I want to say that this will not be alone a Democratic victory; it will be a victory for America's victory over dictatorship and partisanship, a victory over division and disonor, a victory over the counsels of selfishness. This nation wants to establish and maintain world peace in concert with those nations which were our allies in the struggle against imperialism and militarism. It wants to extend the Monroe Doctrine to the world. It wants to secure peace in the eastern hemisphere as in the western and to secure the future of generations of Americans from the necessity of laying down lives abroad to save mankind from military domination.

Election Forecasts are Issued by Chairmen White and Hays—Optimistic Views are Held Out by Each of the Organization Chiefs

NEW YORK.—On the eve of next week's battle at the polls, final communiques were issued Saturday night by the chiefs of the general staffs of the two political armies.

Both are confident in tone, and each seizes the opportunity of making a last appeal to the voters of the country.

Republican Chairman Hays predicts an overwhelming victory for Harding and Coolidge, with 395 electoral votes "almost certain."

Democratic Chairman White asserts that Cox and Roosevelt will win, and sees no reason to alter his optimistic forecast of Friday.

Both also claim majorities in both house and senate.

Following are the two statements:

BY WILL H. HAYS

(Chairman Republican National Committee.)

The evidence of the overwhelming Republican victory hourly increases.

It is now certain that the Republicans will carry the following states: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In addition the Republicans have very much better than an even chance to carry:

Arizona, Kentucky, Maryland, and New Mexico, with 27 additional electoral votes.

This makes 395 Republican electoral votes almost certain out of the total of 534.

Republican election in Kentucky is absolutely certain providing the weather is such that it is physically possible for the great Republican majority in the mountains of eastern part of the state to get to the polls.

The same element enters into the case in Tennessee, where there is a splendid chance for the Republicans.

SENATOR HARDING, in discussing the Irish problem, tacitly implied that he had been a part of the Senate's record of sympathy when the record and facts disclose that when he did not dodge a vote relating to Ireland, he voted measures tending to sympathetic settlement.

FACTS MISREPRESENTED

A distinguished female citizen of the Republican committee asserted that the league under Article I, sanctioned and legalized the white slave traffic, and never apologized for this glaring misrepresentation.

SENATOR HARDING, in one speech attacked the administration for allowing failure to enforce the prohibition law, when the records disclosed that in a Senate speech, he had predicted that the law could never be enforced in this country and the facts were that the law was being enforced by the federal government.

A woman speaker uttered snarling about the president of the United States, using language which I would repeat, despite her family connection with great men in the recent history of the nation.

CAPTURE OF DIAZ CALLED FARCE

Couldn't Surrender Because Followers Would Kill Him

MEXICO CITY, Mexico. — The "capture" of Colonel Felix Diaz at the El Jabo hacienda near Tiapecoyan, Vera Cruz, was an affair that was staged as carefully as a Broadway musical comedy. The many conflicting reports as to what had been done or Diaz were sent out in preparation for the chief scene in the comedy.

The purpose of the "capture," it is said, was to cool the resentment of the followers of Diaz because of his desertion of them.

These men, who made tremendous sacrifices for their leader, have now been left to shift for themselves.

Some are merely persons who have followed Diaz for years, giving such signal proofs of their loyalty that they were included in the bodyguard which surrounded him while he was reaching out for a way of escape.

Others are men who were property owners, but were willing to sacrifice everything in support of Diaz.

Had Diaz made terms with the new government and surrendered, it is asserted here, some of his indignant and outraged followers would have killed him.

his retreat in the State of Santa Cruz long ago had it not been for this fear of violence at the hands of followers, who would resent his desertion of them. This made his great problem that of getting safely away from his loyal band and not that of making terms with the Mexican Government.

Diaz knew weeks ago, it is asserted, that the President de la Huerta would give him pardon, help and protection.

The flood of confusing stories coming from Vera Cruz concerning Diaz during the past few weeks are now believed to have been sent out in an effort to make it easier for Diaz to stage the comedy of his "capture."

COMIC OPERA CAPTURE

General Gaudalup Sanchez, it is said, marched his troops to the El Jabo hacienda, knowing that Diaz would be waiting for him there.

It was perfectly understood that Diaz would be liberated and sent out of the country.

Like Villa, it is said, Diaz is to receive a donation from the Mexican Treasury. Some persons say he is to get $500,000 pesos, or $250,000. Others say he is to get 2,000,000 pesos, or $1,000,000.

His "capture" will result in the scattering of a band which he has held together for about ten years and which was as devoted to him as were the followers of a feudal lord.

Diaz, a master of stage-craft as applied to the affairs of life, was until his capture the idol of the peons in Santa Cruz and other sections of Mexico.

"In Her Own Right"

It would be a fine thing, would it not, to put your wife in possession of an income in her own right?

An income all hers; funds for personal expenses coming regularly without calling on you; an "allowance" paid periodically by check of this company, conferred absolutely upon her, always secured, no matter what reverses overtake you.

Such a thing is quite possible, even to the man of moderate means. It is no drawback if you cannot set aside now the principal necessary to the accomplishment of this object.

The "Lima Trust Plan" is one by which you can capitalize part of your income for this or any other purpose. You can accomplish by degrees what most men fail to accomplish, because they think a trust fund must be endowed all at once.

This plan is full of interest for the busy man of affairs. It is a simple matter to have its wealth of opportunities explained to you. Ask for booklet, "The Lima Trust Plan" for creating and enlarging an estate.

VICTIMS OF 73 DISASTERS AIDED BY RED CROSS

Work of Mercy for Past Year is Told in Annual Report of the Organization—30,000 Persons Given Assistance—Greatest Catastrophe in Texas.

WASHINGTON.—Virtually every phase of Red Cross service, including first aid, nursing health service, home service, and relief, was brought into play by the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year in aiding 30,000 persons in 164 communities, victims of seventy-three disasters. The complete story of how Red Cross preparedness for disaster alleviated distress and prevented untold suffering is told in the forthcoming annual report.

In the accomplishment of this relief work 140 Red Cross chapters were called upon to assist, the sum of $900,000 in cash and supplies was expended. Thirty temporary hospitals were called into existence, twenty-odd motor corps were organized, seven special relief trains were sent out and 110 special representatives and nurses were furnished in addition to the aid given by the local Red Cross workers in the community visited by disaster.

In these 73 disasters, including 19 tornados and cyclones, 2 hurricanes, 2 cloudbursts, 1 hailstorm, 2 earthquakes, 1 landslide, 15 fires, 1 explosion, 9 floods, 10 shipwrecks, 1 train wreck, 4 riots, 1 motor accident and 2 droughts—850 persons were killed, 1,500 were injured, 12,000 (approximately) were rendered homeless, while property worth $85,000,000 was destroyed.

CORPUS CHRISTI DISASTER.—The largest and most destructive disaster of the year was at Corpus Christi, Tex., in September, 1919. Approximately 400 were killed and 4,000 made homeless. The Red Cross division director with a staff of 35 assistants administered a fund of $400,000 giving aid to 3,600 families and four towns and rural districts and sufficient supplies to each family to enable it to stand on its feet.

Because of tornados the Gulf and Lake divisions were called upon to send emergency relief with trained workers into nearly 80 communities. The two droughts in Montana and North Dakota gave abundant opportunity for trained workers from the northern division to help the Red Cross chapters demonstrate their usefulness. A number of shipwrecks proved the readiness of the Atlantic division and the New York metropolitan area committee to assist in that line of work.

The record of last year emphasizes the need of abundant preparedness along the line of disaster relief and has resulted in the organization of disaster preparedness committees by about 400 chapters and the setting aside of a special emergency fund by the national organization of $5,000,000, in addition to the regular annual appropriation for this purpose made in its budget.

EXTEND HOME SERVICE.—Another feature of Red Cross work which has been greatly extended the past year is the home service in the families of civilians, patterned after the home service which rendered assistance to the 800,000 families of soldiers and sailors during the war.

This service, which was inaugurated late last year, was extended to 600 families during the year covered by the annual report. It is furnished only where there is no other established agency for performing this especial class of public service, and is confined to chapters of the Red Cross which comply with certain restrictions intended to maintain standards and perpetuate the work. Approximately 1,000 chapters have made application for such authority and 572 have been given the desired permission. This plan of extension contemplates not only the conduct of general family welfare work but the seeking out and developing of demands for other forms of community service and securing the cooperation of specialized organizations to fill those needs.

February 1, 1920, the foreign language information service which was organized by the National Government during the war was taken over by the American Red Cross and became a bureau in the department of civil relief. The two-fold work of the bureau is to inform the 17,000,000 and more non-English speaking residents of the United States, in their own language, concerning the laws of the United States, the obligations they are under, the privileges extended to them and to help them to secure just treatment in places where they are ignorant of conditions. It also aims to inform the general public as to the needs of the alien and how best to break down the wall of misunderstanding that so frequently arises between the alien and other citizens. The bureau has fifteen sections reaching eighteen foreign language groups, and works in close cooperation with fifty-eight government departments, bureaus, 850 foreign language newspapers and 67,000 branches of foreign language organizations.

JUNIOR RED CROSS.—During the school year 1919-1920 the Junior Red Cross was chiefly concerned with the necessary relief work which was the legacy of the war period. The school children of America were called upon to supply bedsides, rugs, curtains, bandages, splints, afghans, bedsides tables and other hospital equipment and supplies for the United States Public Health Service hospitals where sick and wounded soldiers were being restored to health and strength. Thousands of these articles were contributed in annual training school classes devoting much time to this work of practical service on the part of the juniors. In addition to this, the children performed much community service.

At the high tide of enrollment during the war period, the Junior Red Cross had in the public, parochial and private schools of the country a total of 11,718,335 members in 83,000 schools. During the readjustment period this membership dropped to 6,242,579 on June 30, 1920, but with the opening of the 1920-21 school year re-enrollment is upward at rapid rates. The juniors contributed to the National Children's Fund, the funds from which the European project was financed during the months of June 30, 1919, to June 30, dismissed the case.

BOTH PARTIES SEE CONGRESS GAINS

Decisive Majorities Claimed by Democrats and Republicans.

CHICAGO.—The quadrennial scramble for congressional seats nears the finish Saturday night with both major parties claiming they would have decisive majorities in the lower house as a result of Tuesday's vote.

With 435 representatives to be selected, the make-up of the incoming house was considered important because of tax problems, reconstruction legislation, soldier bonus and other domestic issues pending.

Republican headquarters here Saturday confidently predicted their present majority of 49 in the house would be swelled by 20 additional representatives. Democrats declared their number would be increased from 191 to a majority of at least 30.

New rifts in the Democratic "old South" were countered on by Victor Hantz, regional chairman of the Republican national committee to give Republicans 30 additional representatives this year, while 19 scattered districts were figured for the remaining 10.

Women of Ohio will enjoy the privileges of equal suffrage for the first time in the November election.

Unaccustomed as they are to voting, the task, the simple, will probably be a source of worry to many of them, but it should not be. Safeguards are thrown about for the protection of the desires of voters who have decided in their own minds how they desire to vote, but who are unable, thru lack of information, to mark their ballots.

VOTING IS SIMPLE.

Instructions to voters are simple and direct. Anyone, man or woman, reading understandingly, may easily equip themselves with the necessary information so that there need be neither delay nor danger of error being made. Read these instructions, from the Ohio election laws as prepared by the Secretary of State:

GAS PROBE WILL START MONDAY

Expert Says He Will Complete Work in One Week

That the investigation of the Lima Natural-Gas Co., to be made by the city council will be completed within a week was evident Saturday. Following informal conferences with President E. R. Curtin of the gas company and the committee appointed by the city council to make the investigation, E. E. Brownell, the expert chosen by the committee declared he will be ready to commence work Monday morning.

At the meeting with the committee in the council chamber Saturday afternoon it was tentatively agreed Brownell should make a hypothetical valuation of the property and determine a fair price for distribution of gas in the city. This, with the cost of gas to the company at the city limits would be the price of gas to the consumer.

Brownell said the work should not require over a week as he can determine approximately a fair price for distribution in a short time after a valuation is obtained. This, he said could be determined from figures in other cities of Lima's size.

After the conference with the committee Brownell went to Curtin and notified the president of the gas company he would expect the books of the company to be open for inspection Monday. Curtin declared the entire records and property of the company will be put at the disposal of the committee until their inspection is completed.

COUNTRY PHYSICIANS SCARCE THRUOUT OHIO

COLUMBUS.—That State medicine is inevitable "if physicians persist in their individualistic relationship between physician and patient," is the claim made by State Health Commissioner A. W. Freeman, addressing members of the Columbus Academy of Medicine.

He said the tendency to specialize has resulted in a serious lack of physicians in rural districts, young doctors going to the cities where they believe their chances for professional and financial success are greater. Dr. Freeman said that the physician has lost personal touch with his patients, altho medicine has advanced greatly in the past score of years.

Miss Wurtbenburg stated that she missed the kiss and asked that Moore be compelled to pay her $10,000. She later offered to accept $500.

Moore has been further punished by being expelled from the club because of the kiss he flinched.

NEIGHBORHOOD QUARREL GIVEN AIRING IN COURT

A neighborhood quarrel, in which one woman was aligned against another, was aired in Justice Ernest M. Botkin's court Saturday.

Mrs. Mary E. Herring sought to place Mrs. Mary Gardner, 712 Hazel-ave, under a bond to keep the peace, charging that she feared she would assault and wound hr.

Testimony was introduced, both women appearing in court on June 30, 1920, and with the opening of the 1920-21 school year re-enrollment is upward at rapid rates. The juniors contributed to the National Children's Fund, the funds from which the European project was financed during the months of June 30, 1919, to June 30, dismissed the case.

LEAGUE WINS IN WEST STATES

Jack Shannon Wires Friends
Good News From Fort Worth

The clergymen of Kansas, regardless of creed, are for Cox and the League of Nations," says a telegram addressed to Lima friends by Jack Shannon, former Deputy United States Marshal for this district, received Saturday night.

The Germans of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas have learned the truth about the League of Nations and have come back to the Democratic ticket. Governor Cox will carry Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma," Shannon says.

This telegram is splendid news to adherents of the Democratic party and to all friends of the League of Nations in Lima and Allen-co. Mr. Shannon is well remembered by our people as a man of keen perception and mature judgment and his assurance as to the result of the election in the states named is evidence of the fact that the League of Nations has won, despite the propaganda employed by its enemies against it.

Mr. Shannon is engaged in the oil business in the southwest, entering that line of endeavor after leaving the office of Deputy United States Marshal.

WIDOW IS BENEFICIARY OF LINDEMANN WILL

Mrs. Margaret Lindemann, Deiphos, widow of Bernard Lindemann, who died October 25, was left all the property of her husband, according to his will, which has been probated in court. The estate consists of $10,000 in real estate and $35,000 in personal property.

A large boot and shoe stock in Delphi is included in the will and left to the widow. Mrs. Lindemann, named executor in the will, was confirmed by the court. Appraisers named are Arthur Miller, Fred Geier and G. J. Baxter.

Interviews With Governor Cox

(BY J. W. FISHER)

CONCERNING THE HECKLER

Mocking is a new popular pastime since the political campaign has gotten into full final swing and is a development that Governor Cox, the Democratic Presidential nominee, enjoys to the utmost, for it affords him the opportunity to show up the inconsistency of the state of mind of the Republican leaders who started something that they'd now like to stop.

"All the way in our trip thru the west," Governor Cox said to the writer on the occasion of his visit to Lima, "questions were fired from the audience, always along the same line. The most popular ... with the heckler is the 'six to one' chestnut concerning the number of votes accorded to nations in the League."

"The next is the ridiculous bullet implanted by the Republicans propaganda, that the League can declare war and that American boys can be ordered into war anywhere without authority of congress."

"The third is the silly charge that our entry into the League would impair the sovereignty of the United States. I answered these questions at Van Wert and Delphos today in the same manner. I have answered them scores and dozens of times at

WOMEN TO VOTE OWN MIND'

Don't be Guided by Husband's Leaders Say

'LOVE' IS COUNTED OUT

Writers' Views on Suffrage Denied by Female Citizens

NEW YORK—According to Dr. Edward Hiram Reede, of Washington the ballot is the barometer of wifely affection, and the woman who loves her husband, as every good wife should, will vote as her spouse does.

In the course of his remarks Dr. Reede, who is a well-known neurologist, says of the modern wife: "If she holds political views contrary to his she consciously or subconsciously feels antagonism toward him."

"The woman who loves her husband romantically has an identification of interests with him. She is one with him in everything—she is a Democrat because he is a Democrat, she may create a myth around her reasons for being a Democrat, but subconsciously she could be nothing else. To her this man she loves is a fountain of wisdom and she concedes the superiority of his judgment in politics as in everything else."

This of course, leads to the ancient and honorable question "What is love?" which is even harder to decide than why are some candidates.

DR. BRILL'S OPINION.

Dr. A. A. Brill, eminent psychoanalyst, on being consulted by the writer, in search of truth and opinions, partially agreed with the neurologist of the court—but modified his assent to some degree.

"Of course, from the few things the doctor says I cannot fully judge what he means," said Dr. Brill recently. "It depends largely on what we mean when we speak of a woman who loves her husband."

If he refers to the Romeo-Juliet type of intense, exclusive, mad love, then he is right. That sort of love causes two hearts to beat as one and each agrees completely with the other. Each personality envelope the other.

"But it seems that the matter of voting today would be more or less extraneous. There are many women in this city, active politically, who love their husbands or think they love them, husbands, perhaps, and really do, insofar as we know. They vote differently, tho. Their love is not that type of the very young and ardent lovers, who belong completely to each other."

"Therefore the doctor's idea would not apply here. But in all things we find exceptions."

"Dr. Reede, I understand, says that if a girl has an ideal love for her father, that is, regards him as her ideal of masculine perfection, or, on the other hand, has a secret antagonism for him, either quality is transferred at her marriage to her husband, who the writer is either the object of her admiration or antipathy, inasmuch as her father was. In that he is right."

"I do not believe, tho, that the matter of a wife casting her lot with a party opposed by her husband would mean that such a state of antagonism existed or had been passed on from her father to her husband."

WOMEN MAKE DENIAL

Independent declarations from prominent women voters have less scientific value than Dr. Brill's statements, but come, so to speak, "from the heart out."

"For eighteen years," says Mrs. Rose Bros, lawyer and suffragist, "I have lived with my husband, a Democrat, while I have been a strong adherent of Republican policies. We have never had a hard word about politics. Our life has been characterized by the greatest congeniality. Dr. Reede is wrong, I am sure."

From Mrs. Oliver Stott Gabriel, law partner of Mrs. Bros and Republican leader, comes further refutation of Dr. Reede's theories.

"What's the matter with that man?" questioned Mrs. Gabriel. Mr. Gabriel has always been a Democrat and I have been on the other side. Now my husband on account of the absolute inefficiency of his party will change to the Republican platform, he says.

"At any rate we get on wonderfully together. We disagree in many things, but I think the woman who votes always just as her husband does is a voting nonentity."

"Any woman who is at all interested in civic affairs is able to think out how to vote."

"We women have traveled alone up the steep hill to get our vote." Interposed Mrs. Bros, "and I guess we can make our stand without man's support, now that we are on the smooth path of victory."

"I don't agree with Dr. Reede at all. Love for country has nothing to do with love for husband. It is as different as the love of a mother for a child, compared with that of a woman for a man."

MUST FOLLOW CONVICTIONS

"The woman who loves her country will vote according to her best conviction. A husband is different."

"The women that never have a head by some men are the kind that fill our divorce courts."

However, Dr. Reede's hypothesis makes great arguments for the husband who wants to head his wife's will to support what he believes to be the best political party. "You don't love me or you would vote the way I say," the would-be masterful male can assert, but it remains to be seen what results his argument will bring.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

ON the eve of a presidential election, and a post-war election at that, and in the face of shadowing prices in the retail trade as well as much lower quotations for basic materials and manufactures, it may seem misconstruing to state that prices are probably lower today than they will be for the ultimate consumer next spring.

There is always a bottom as well as a top to prices. The stock market began discounting the very conditions which are now reaching you and me, as far back as last May, which saw the end of the second bull campaign of 1920. Merchants at the same time could see no decline, because they were paying as high if not higher prices in May and June as they were at any period of the high price area.

But the change is here, and here for the ultimate consumer. Because there are extremes always, is the basis for the statement that consumers will probably do well to buy now, because some of the cut being made over the counter may not be maintained next spring. There can be no collapse, nor yet no quotations as low as the 1913 quotations for one reason—labor. Hence, it must be construed that some of the present low prices are sacrifices on the part of dealers, rather than normal asking for the articles offered.

Unemployment on the other hand, will probably grow more extreme in the winter period. Even the railroads so long with an under-supply of men, are now reducing pay-rolls. The situation of the motor industry is well known; the building conditions are equally as readable and new enterprises are conspicuous by their absence and will remain so until the repeal of present tax laws.

This is now a period to buy wearables that are needed and a like period to make investments in good seasoned stocks and bonds and new issues of merit at existing interest rates. For the masses, better times are here; for the industries, harder times are upon us. In Lima conditions are better than in many other manufacturing cities, due to the fact that our two biggest industries are loaded with orders.

CLEAR, CONCISE, COGENT

"I PROPOSE to vote for Governor Cox and not for Senator Harding."

"On the major issue of the campaign the Republican party leaders have subordinated the welfare of the world to selfish, partisan advantage. I believe the party's reservations were framed and supported with the prime intent not of improving the Treaty and the Covenant, but of making it appear that the Republicans had saved the country from pretended dangers."

"The talk about 'Americanism' and preserving the independence of the United States is campaign claptrap. I am in favor of the country joining the League wholeheartedly and working cordially for its maintenance and improvement. Senator Harding has blown hot and cold, has no policy and no leadership, promises all things to all men, is concerned (like most of his associates) mainly with getting into office."

"Least of all can I vote for him because of an expectation that, having repudiated the League during the campaign, he will bring the country to join it after having been elected. I cannot support a man because he is expected to do that which he said he would not do."

"I believe Governor Cox to be a high-minded, courageous, progressive leader, untrammelled by inconsistent promises and uncontrollable by any clique."

This is the sincere statement of Frank W. Taussig, head of the Department of Economics at Harvard University.

RURAL POLICE—NATIONAL GUARD

UNDER the plea that a reorganization of the National Guard was of first importance, the Republican legislature in its last session failed to pass the bill providing for the establishment of a rural police system. It passed the National Guard bill instead.

Here is the result: The National Guard has been recruited to about one-half 16 former strength and crime in the country has increased about 500 per cent. Scarcely a day passes that the newspapers fail to chronicle some outrage committed in the country districts. Murder, bank robbery, post office robberies, arson, theft, holdups, virtually all the crimes on the calendar are being committed, with only occasional arrests.

In Wood, Defiance, Ottawa and other counties the farmers in self-defense have been compelled to organize protective associations. Others are considering similar action.

The National Guard does not and cannot do the work of the proposed rural police any more than rural police would be able to replace the National Guard. Their spheres of influence are as widely separated as the poles. The rural police is first, last, and all the time intended for the protection of the country districts, now utterly at the mercy of the gentry who thrive by robbery and theft.

On the occasion of a recent visit to Lima, A. V. Donahey, Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, declared in favor of rural police with the authority of deputy sheriffs.

HOSIERY AND POLITICS

THE "Blue Stockings" we have always had with us in political life in America. Not that the "Blue Stockings" were effective—far from it. They were purely negative. Too much of their support was likely to mark the candidate for defeat.

Now comes a change for which the Nineteenth Amendment is responsible. Emphasis changes from color to material. With the entry of the women, the Honest Ballot Association reports the effectiveness of "silk stockings" as a means of political influence.

A feminine watcher for the association, it is reported, was influenced by such a gift. If one woman fell because of such a lure, it is expected that the politicians will observe the fact and act accordingly.

Do we face the complications of a "blue silk stocking issue" in politics? Such articles are on display in the shop windows. What influence are they exerting on American political life?

CUSTER FOR RECORDER

IF there is anything to the saying and the belief, in political circles, that "one good term deserves another," surely and certainly Guy Custer should again, on next Tuesday, be commissioned by the people of Allen-co as Recorder of this county.

Mr. Custer has served the people of Allen faithfully and well. No one can say aught of his work in maintaining in an accurate and neat manner the important records of the county, in realty transfers and other important transactions. Service and courtesy has been the motto at the Recorder's office under the regime of Mr. Custer.

This man, who has served so faithfully and well, is a native of this county, born in Bath-twp, and has been a resident of Lima for 23 years. One of the most respected citizens of the city, well known all over the county, with a record of fine service and citizenship, Mr. Custer's request for a second term as County Recorder is a just one and should be accorded.

MISS LIMA: "At any rate, the end of the campaign brings an opportunity for the tired orator to recuperate."

VERY LITTLE, INDEED

There will be very little change in trousers this season.—Fashion hint in N. Y. Herald.

It will be a very sweet hour, indeed, when we can sit down to a beefsteak and have a clear conscience—when we can sit down to a beefsteak and know that we are not taking it away from starving Europe and thereby helping break the heart of the world.

Somewhat it has always seemed to us that it is well-nigh impossible to break the heart of the world. It's a tough old world with a tough old heart that has been pounding along for a good many centuries, all efforts to break it having failed.

The last war didn't break it, and we will have to admit that, for a small war, it was rather active.

The Bolsheviks are trying to break it, but they will blow up before the next winter is over.

We have been trying to break it by not signing away our rights, but we have been no more successful than the others. It just can't be done.

However, as we said before, it will be a pleasure to sit down to the beefsteak.

A friend of ours has had the misfortune to buy a ouija board which was manufactured in France, and it spells everything out in a language he cannot understand. Probably it resembles a message from the League of Nations to General Pilсудski.

"Each Loyal Box Gets $1,500." Headline. Why not each loyal Sock?

I would rather be born lucky than rich, but I would rather be born rich than not at all.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

FTER six score intervening days, the battle of the ballots will begin. The campaign of 1920 is near to a close. In many respects it has been a remarkable one—particularly as for the clarity of the issue on one side and lack of clarity on the other. There has never been a moment, from the days of the great national Democratic convention in San Francisco, that the position of the Democratic party on the League of Nations has been misunderstood or questioned.

The Democratic platform declares for America's entry into it as a preventative of war and as that America may take her place among the nations of the earth in working out after-the-war problems, and the standard bearer of the party has stood four-square all the way on that line, making one of the most remarkable campaigns ever set down in history in the United States. James M. Cox has won the honor of being the greatest political campaigner this country has ever known.

Quite in contrast with the Democratic nominee, the chosen leader of the Republican party has scarcely been permitted to leave the front porch of his Marion home. His party platform wiggles and wobbles over the question of the League of Nations and the candidate himself has done an even more complete job of wiggling and wobbling. There is no question of the issue. Those who favor America going into the League of Nations may give expression to their desire by casting their vote for James M. Cox for President. Those opposed can only vote for Warren G. Harding. What American men and women will do remains for the ballot on next Tuesday to tell.

THE STATE TICKET

Heading one of the strongest state tickets ever nominated by the Democrats in Ohio is Hon. A. V. Donahey, who won the title, as Auditor of State, as the "watchdog of the treasury." The gubernatorial race is such that party lines have been broken down and it is assumed that many thousands of Republicans will cast their ballot for Mr. Donahey, in the interest of honest government and for decency and law enforcement. With Mr. Donahey as Governor the people of Ohio will have reason to hold up their heads in pride.

Howell Wright of Cleveland is the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor. He is well qualified for that position of honor. He served two terms in the state senate and during both terms was chairman of the public health committee, taking an especial interest in health and welfare legislation. He is a resident of Cleveland, is married and is the father of three children.

For Secretary of State the Democratic party presents W. D. Fulton, who served in that position from 1916 to 1918 and instituted many reforms that resulted in saving to the state thousands of dollars. He put the affairs of the office on a business basis such as it had never before known and his record was a most enviable one. Mr. Fulton's home is at Newark.

Daniel E. Butler of Toledo, candidate on the Democratic ticket for Auditor of State is a typical self-made man, having been thrown on his own resources when a small boy. He has made a success of life in every way and is an exponent of the Rooseveltian idea of large families. Mr. and Mrs. Butler are the parents of ten children. He is a fiscal officer of unusual attainment and is well qualified for the position of Auditor of State.

Chas. H. Orwig of Mansfield, hero of the world war, having lost a limb in the Argonne and who is now the Democratic candidate for Treasurer of State, is an expert accountant of recognized ability. He is the only support of a widowed mother. Mr. Orwig's opponent is seeking a third term.

Joseph McGhee served the people of this state as Attorney General in 1916 and 1917 and is this year again a candidate. He is a native of Jackson-co and in addition to being high up in the practice of the legal profession, he attained experience as an assistant Attorney General before aspiring to that office. He served one good term and is entitled to another.

W. A. Julian, of Cincinnati, the party's nominee for United States Senator, needs no introduction to voters of Lima and Allen-co. His fine record as a citizen, as a business man and as an employer of labor is well known. He should be elected.

CONGRESSIONAL

A citizen of Allen-co, Hon. B. F. Welty, is the choice of the Democratic party for Congressman from the 4th district. Mr. Welty has attained experience of value to his constituents, has introduced measures of a progressive character and should be returned to assist in putting thru good things well started. Mr. Welty has served with credit and honor to himself and his constituency. He's the right man in the right place.

SENATORIAL

"Service with experience" is a well chosen motto to apply to another Allen-co man, Hon. T. M. Berry of Spencerville, Democratic candidate for State Senator, from the 32d district of Ohio. As a member of that august body, Mr. Berry acquitted himself in manner that admits of no criticism. By all means he should be returned.

JUDICIAL TICKET

The names of the Democratic candidates for judicial positions appear on a non-partisan ballot, without party designation and to vote for them it is necessary that each and every voter acquaint himself or herself with the personnel of the nominees before entering the election booth. A cross must be placed before each name of the candidate to be voted for. The Democratic candidates are: Judge Hugh L. Nichols for Chief Justice of the Supreme court; Dan C. Cull and George W. Mannix, Jr., for Judges of the Supreme court, two to be elected; Coleman Avery for Judge of the Supreme court, short term; H. L. Conn of Van Wert for Judge of the Court of Appeals; Fred C. Becker for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allen-co; Arthur F. Lindemann for Judge of the Probate court of Allen-co. Messrs. Becker and Conn have been endorsed by non-partisan organizations of their respective counties, Democrats and Republicans alike. The Democratic party is proud of its candidates. Take this list into the voting booth with you so that you will make no mistake in marking your ballot.

COUNTY TICKET

With no small amount of pride the Democratic party of Allen-co presents for the consideration of the electorate of this part and parcel of the commonwealth of Ohio a county ticket made up of men who stand high in their respective communities and whose past record is such that those who vote for them are assured that if elected they will give faithful, efficient and honest service.

In honoring Robert A. Hefner by election as County Representative, the people of Allen-co will be honoring themselves, as this young man is possessed of a record and a character that commands itself.

John T. Cotner, candidate for Clerk of Courts, has had the advantage of wide experience of a character that fits him for the place he seeks. As a citizen he stands high among his fellows. He deserves and doubtless will receive emphatic endorsement at the hands of the electorate.

"One good term deserves another." This applies with good force to Chas. W. Baxter, candidate for Sheriff. Mr. Baxter has served one term faithfully and well and his name is presented by Democracy in confidence that the voters will approve his splendid incumbency in that office.

James G. Mackenzie, J. A. Miller, C. C. Arnold and Z. J. Baber are the Democratic nominees for County Commissioners. Mr. Mackenzie is now serving his first term and his record of attainment has been such that the people of Allen-co owe it to him and to themselves to give him another term. Mr. Miller likewise served one term and believes that Democratic custom and usage should accord him a second. By good service to his constituents he merits it. C. C. Arnold is presented to the voters as a man well worthy of their support. A. J. Baber is the party's candidate for the unexpired term of J. L. Heath, until September of 1921. All of these men deserve your support.

N. W. Bessinger, for County Treasurer, is well equipped to discharge the duties of the office he seeks. Voters cannot go wrong in casting their ballots for him.

Guy Custer has an enviable record as County Recorder and is the choice of his party as a candidate for a second term. By all means he should be retained in that office.

The important duties of the office of County Surveyor demand the service of a competent man. Edgar V. Smith is the man Democracy has chosen as well fitted for that task. Give him your support.

There is no office in the county more important than that of Prosecuting Attorney. The Democratic party presents the name of Harry O'Connor. Long experience in the legal profession and as an assistant to the office of the Prosecutor, well qualifies M. O'Connor. Voters will make no mistake in supporting him.

Dr. V. H. May, elected previously to the office of Coroner and who resigned to enter the army in the world war, has been chosen by the Democratic party as its candidate and as a reward for duty well done, he should be elected.

From top to bottom, the Democratic ticket is worthy of the support of everyone.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

MASKED LUNG FEVER

In one who is perfectly well, the pain of pneumonia is a sharp, stabbing pain, increased by coughing, and by each inspiration. In which a moderate, dry, sharp pain (intercostal pneumonia) there is invariably an accompanying chill, without any noticeable fever, without any particular complaint of pain or distress on the part of the victim, but just an unvoiced degree of weakness or prostration. Indeed, it is a common terminal condition in various diseases and in advanced age. Pneumonia in a drinker has too often been mistaken for delirium tremens, because the mental wandering or confusion may be the only symptom apparent to the casual observer, or even to the careless doctor summoned by the police. Pneumonia in infants often begins with convulsion, instead of the mere chill commonly seen in the onset in adults; and when this convolution of onset is followed after a day or two by stupor or coma (unconsciousness), as is often the case, a diagnosis of meningitis may be guessed at, unless the physician carefully examines the infant's lungs.

Physicians who are perhaps a trifle too enthusiastic about operating, sometimes rush a young patient to the operating room for an appendicitis operation, only to discover at the last moment, or maybe right afterward, that the pain in the lower side was really due to pneumonia in the lower right lobe.

The pains of pneumonia is not the soreness or rawness of the chest, which is commonly felt with various slight acute conditions in which there may be much coughing. One with such soreness will worry about pneumonia only if he takes too seriously the nostrum "makers" propaganda and the selling arguments offered by the shrewd corner druggist. There is no more likelihood of pneumonia occurring under such circumstances unless the condition is deliberately aggravated by ill-advised doping with narcotic cough medicines—than

YOUR NAME
MacNAB
VARIATIONS—Abbot, Abbott.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Scottish and English.
SOURCE—Occupation
The family name of MacNab is simply the Anglicized version of the Gaelic "Mac-an-Aba," and it means exactly the same thing as Abbotson, "son of abbot." From this it might be inferred, in view of the celibacy to which the clergy of both England and Scotland were bound (for both countries were Catholic in the days when family names began to take shape); that there was scandal involved in the origin of this group of names. Such, however, is not the case. It is not possible to trace the English names to their various individual sources in all cases, of course, as they came into being here and there at different times in different parts of the country, but the Gaelic clan system permits us to trace the name in Scotland back to a single source.

MacNab is the name of one of the larger clans, known as "Calannan-an-Aba," or "the descendants of the Abbot." This particular abbot held official position at Glendochart in the reign of King David I. He was not a priest, but a layman. The organization of the medieval abbeys was not always entirely religious, and laymen often had official and administrative duties within them.

The English name in some cases may have originated as the result of a father of a family having renounced the married state and received holy orders, but the other explanation appears to be predominant.

The names Abbot and Abbottson are used by septs of the Clan MacNab.

GOV. COX CERTAIN FIGHT IS WON

Soul of America Has Been Aroused Candidate Believes.

DONAHEY - DAVIS CONTEST

Long Drawn Campaign is Bitter as End Approaches.

(BY J. W. FISHER)

Save and except for the last minute touches, here and there, to see it that all fences are still standing and strong, the campaign of 1912 is practically closed. Only one more day intervenes, then the battle of battles begins.

Kever, perhaps, in the history of the country has a more bitter campaign been waged, into which has been brought every effort of ingenuity and every artifice that could be conceived by clever minds to create sentiment, one way or another. At the time the candidates for the Presidency were placed in nomination it was not believed that the League of Nations would become the dominating and all-absorbing issue of the campaign, the unexpected issue occurred and throughout the long weeks of the pre-election battle little attention has been given to any other question.

Now, at the close of the campaign the issue had been made; it is clearly defined. The Democratic party favors going into the League, the American people thereby keeping their pledge to the allies in the war and with those who died that democracy might be saved from subversion and the war should not have been fought. The opposition is for staying out, thus turning its back on the woes of the world and forgetting the Divine injunction: "You are your brother's keeper". The Republican party, by the slogan of its originally selected candidate, repudiated the charge given to America by the blood of our heroes in the war. The Democratic party, by its platform and by the public utterances of its candidate, declared in favor of America not only becoming the leader in America, but in the whole world. There is no question of cleavage clear.

Those who oppose the cause of the Democratic party in the Tuesday election will take their place on the side of the reactionary element of the Republican party, the same group that Theodore Roosevelt fought so tenaciously in an attempt to purge his party. The old crowd is again in the saddle, the same crowd that was scourged out of the White House in 1912 by an outraged and judgmental electorate and which again seeks to gain control of the government by stamping down the mounds over the graves of our dead heroes in the war by holding out prospects to munition makers of fat contracts by the opposition to the League of Nations, by assassination of the name and fame of Woodrow Wilson and by appealing to every element of discontent and by arraying class against class and marshaling the forces of every element that is susceptible to promises for votes doivered.

We witness until the very last hour of the campaign the unprecedented spectacle of two divergent groups of men, G. O. P., with Taft and Johnson as the acknowledged leaders on the two sides, apparently uniting on a candidate for President who one day is for the League and the next day against it. Should Warren G. Harding be elected President, the day of reckoning cannot long be delayed. He cannot go on forever wiggling and wobbling on the front porch. What a pitiful position he will be in, when the Taft and Johnson forces demand that he make good his promises, when he will stand before the world in even more profound than now, in the pitiful light of exposure that will brand him with shame and humiliation. Better by far for him to turn that a millstone had been tied about his neck and that he had been cast into the depths of the sea. Exposure of double dealing could not be averted. For on the one hand former President Taft is preaching from the stump the doctrine of a league of nations to which he says Mr. Harding is committed, while Senator Johnson and his followers are equal-

America witness to the most perfidious tactics of political chicanery that the civilized world has perhaps ever known. Will America awaken too late to the end? The fact that it has been a party to one of the greatest frauds of the age will the citizens of this land soon forget their indignation in 1912 when they found that in the ballot box, and return to power the same reactionary element that aroused them then and which again seeks to fasten its talons upon them? The election of Warren G. Harding to the Presidency of the United States, would be a calamity to mankind. The people must choose between Cox and Davis progress and prosperity, or Harding and reaction at the most pronounced character. Which will it be?

Closing his campaign in Toledo Monday night, Governor James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for the Presidency of the United States, brings to an end the greatest political battle this country has ever witnessed. Carrying his message direct to the people instead of hiding behind the post of a front porch, Governor Cox traveled thru 35 of the 48 states of the union, a pilgrimage that resulted in the militant leader being acclaimed everywhere as his words of wisdom around the soul of America in the great light of a new day.

Preaching the gospel of peace, pointing out with words of fire and conviction the way America is duty bound to pursue, this distinguished Orator won to his banner many thousands of persons who reluctantly gave duty before partisanship and who stood on boulders fearlessly on the side of justice and right. The splitting of the Democratic party by its platform and by the pronouncements of its chosen leader in the League of Nations, has won the admiration and respect and support of those who believe in the greatness of America, in the certainty of its future progress and in the necessity of its obligations being judiciously kept. Duty cannot be denied. The soul of America has been aroused.

Governor Cox reads in the reflection of the great response to his campaign for the League of Nations and the maintenance of the honor of America signs of success in abundant measure. He is certain that the verdict of the people on election day will justify the belief that stirred his heart. He believes, and his counselors are equally certain, that success has been won.

However that may be, there is no disputing the fact that Governor Cox has given the country a new demonstration of steadfastness to hundreds of thousands of persons whose purpose of devotion to a principle who have come under the spell of his wonderful oratory and convincing logic. Among the results of the campaign believe us that America has been profoundly stirred. Never once did he waver, not once did he falter; he never swerved from the path of support of the League of Nations. Not once did he wibble and wobble; not once did he make a speech that was ready to stand or fall on the great issue. His opponent, however hot and cold, he has tried to do all things to all men. Governor Cox has stood squarely on his party's progressive and clear enunciation of principles. His platform, having no platform on which to stand, his opponent, according to his own admission, "hasn't a constructive idea" on anything to offer in lieu of the League of Nations.

Unless all indications fail Harry L. Davis will go down into defeat next Tuesday, as the Republican nominee for Governor of Ohio. The force of the good right arm of the electorate or the Buckeye state bids fair to wield the pencil in the election booth next Tuesday in a manner that will keep Harry L. Davis just where he is now, a private citizen. Unsuccessfully endeavoring to beat down his stench emitting record as Mayor of Cleveland, writing on the searching denunciation of a grand jury investigation, brought to the white House by officials exposed by the stirring resolutions adopted by ministerial associations in the larger cities of the state, but deserted by his own party organization and the candidates for the same ticket with him, Davis in his extremity threatens vengeance in reprisals on the Republican state and national ticket.

In the light of his record, Harry Davis' appeal to the electorate appears to have been falling on deaf ears. Frightened by the spectra of defeat that looms large, Davis has become frantic. From all over the state comes reports of wholesale desertions by adherents of the G. O. P. who refuse to stand for Davis.

On the other hand, Hon. A. V. Donahey, with a record of honest service, good citizenship and general desirability, is the Democratic nominee. Earning the title of "watchdog of the treasury" in the capacity of Auditor of State, Mr. Donahey is being endorsed by law abiding people of all political parties all over the state. That he will be elected is assured, if people vote as they talk.

Franklin attempts by Davis and Willis at the end of the past week to make it appear that there had been no friction between them, is ludicrous in the full light of what has really occurred. Frank B. Willis, the G. O. P. candidate for United States Senator, driven into a corner and no longer able to dodge taking a stand for or against Davis, declared that the reported break between himself and Davis was an "unintelligent falsehood"; but he had examined Davis' record in Cleveland and approved it.

Willis thereby has served no less on his ministerial associations of various cities and on law abiding men and women all over the state, that he does not believe the evidence they believe and that he is willing to become a participant in the trial of the vote Davis claims to have marshaled in his campaign. Willis has aligned himself with Davis, what will the voters say?

One of the keenest regrets of the local Republican committee and the Senate and House of the G. O. P. is that Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, did not, in the course of any one of the few times he was shooed off the front porch at Marion, stop in Lima on an extended address. Passing thru this city over the C. and E. R. R., en route from Marion to Chicago and Des Moines where he made a dismally speech in the date city, the Republican candidate spoke for a few minutes to a hastily collected number of persons at the depot. Many persons desired the opportunity to see and hear the candidate without the necessity of joining a pilgrimage to the front porch, but it was not afforded. The close of Harding's campaign does not include a visit to Lima.

The fact that Governor James M. Cox will close his campaign as the Democratic nominee for the Presidency at Toledo, Monday night, also should realize that without the aid of a Congress and United States Senate favorable to the League the desired results could not be obtained. President Wilson's hands were tied by his only defeat as a candidate he did not bring his campaign tour to close in that city. Who knows the fact had anything to do with his plans in the present campaign? It is not known. It may be that the Governor believes in the psychology of the situation and that he feels his victory will recruit.

Donahey Voted Against Suffrage Five Times

Official Records Also Show Democratic Candidate For Governor Voted Wet Ten Times

COLUMBUS, Oct. 27.—A. V. Donahey, Democratic candidate for governor, voted "wet" ten times and against suffrage five times while a member of the Ohio Constitutional convention according to a statement issued by Charles H. Fouts of Morgan County, who, as a member of the state legislature was known as a sponsor of temperance and good roads.

"Mr. Donahey made no speech on any subject during the seven months of the convention, and we must therefore gather his opinions from his votes," said Fouts. "We can better understand his votes when we compare them with those of other members whose attitude we know, not only from their votes, but also from their public utterances.

"One such delegate to the convention was John F. Kramer of Mansfield, now national prohibition commissioner; another was J. W. Tannehill, my fellow townsmen, and now employed by Donahey in the state auditor's office. Now let's determine Mr. Donahey's attitude on the liquor traffic, when the proposal to license saloonkeepers, thus legalizing their business, was being considered.

"On page 542 of the record of the constitutional convention's proceedings it shows an amendment in the interest of license was before the convention. Donahey voted yes, Kramer and Tannehill voted no. On page 543 is an amendment in the interest of temperance; Donahey voted no, while Kramer and Tannehill voted yes. Same page. An amendment in the interest of license, Donahey no, Tannehill, yes. Kramer, yes.

"Now on page 584 Motion to table a license proposition Donahey, no; Kramer, yes; Tannehill, yes. Same page, motion to table a dry proposition, Donahey, yes; Kramer, no; Tannehill, no. Page 594 an amendment in the interest of temperance, Donahey, no; Tannehill, yes; Kramer, yes.

"Again on page 592 amendment relating to cities deciding the number of saloons, Kramer, yes; Tannehill, yes; Donahey, no. Page 594, amendment to liquor proposal, Donahey, yes; Kramer, no; Tannehill, no. Page 596 motion to lay liquor proposal on the table, Donahey, no; Kramer, yes; Tannehill, yes.

"Now we are down to page 597: Proposal No. 151, the first line reading, "License to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in the state." Vote, Tannehill, no; Donahey, yes.

"That is the official record. Ten times Mr. Tannehill voted dry. Ten times Mr. Donahey voted exactly opposite to Mr. Tannehill. These are the facts—Draw your own conclusion."

Touching on suffrage measures before the convention, Fouts said the question of enfranchising women was debated at length and voted upon.

"Mr. Donahey did not debate this, or any other question, but he voted. W. B. Kilpatrick of Warren led the fight for women suffrage—the same Kilpatrick who declined to attend the Democratic national convention this year as a delegate from the nineteenth district, letting his alternate go, because he could not conscientiously vote for Gov. Cox because he was so wet.

"The proposals and the amendments and motions relating to suffrage brought a roll call and vote on five different occasions. They are recorded on pages 619, 622, 627, 638 and 1857 of the official records. On these five different votes Mr. Kilpatrick voted "yes" five times; Mr. Donahey voted "no" five times.

"These are the facts and you can draw your own conclusions about what Mr. Donahey thinks about suffrage."

ALLEN COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

H. E. Simonton, Secretary.

Representatives of Republicans in Lima and Allen co who have come out openly for the election of Governor Cox for President, W. A. Jollie for United States Senator and B. F. Welty for Congress, as evidence of their conviction that America should enter the League of Nations is still growing from day to day and the truth of the situation down the road upon them, there will likely be many more before election day on Tuesday. The army of voters flocking to the standard of Vice Donahey for Governor also grows with the passing hours.

Wholeheartedly and without mental reservation, it is a pleasure to recommend to the electorate of the national, state, judicial, district and county Democratic tickets the candidates of the national, state, judicial, district and county Democratic tickets this fall. Each and every man names on the list is deserving of the support of the electorate. No apology need be made for any single person presented by the Democratic party. Standing four-square with record of excellent service, those who seek re-election are asking deserved recognition. Those Democratic candidates who have not heretofore been mentioned are presented to the people with the full assurance that confidence reposed in them will not be misplaced.

Campaign strenuously, with the coming of election day, on Tuesday expected to be practical, though as a result of the ballot having been extended to women, is a big one in contemplation. The work of counting the votes for the various candidates is also expected to be nearly doubled. Unusual interest will be taken in the result of the election and elaborate calculations will be made for getting to the people of this city figures on all contests as quickly as possible. Whether there will be a tie or not, the count of the votes concerned at least, the demands upon the election for Tuesdays experiences.

JOLLEY. CHENOWETH LOWER PRICED SALE

Who Wants the Saloon Back

The Liquor Interests, at great expense, are asking you to vote NO on House Bill No. 620. WHY? Because they want to prevent the enforcement of Prohibition in Ohio, and to bring back the saloon with all its debruching evils. If by your votes you enable them to win this election, they will next attempt to legalize the sale of beer and wine, so that children at a soda fountain may have their choice between these milder forms of booze and a strawberry soda.

Your Opportunity, Women!

For more than fifty years the Liquor Interests have fought Prohibition and Woman Suffrage. Now voters, Men and Women, Patriots, arise in your might, and with your ballot smite this arch enemy of Manhood, Womanhood and Childhood. Protect homes and Children from this deadly enemy, by placing your X before the Yes on House Bill No. 620, as shown in Sample Ballot herewith.

MOTHERS and DAUGHTERS, start a CHAIN of VOTERS for the BILL PERSONAL WORK alone can and will win this fight. Speak to your neighbors. Call your friends by phone. Ask them to do the same in turn. Follow this plan through until every voter in Allen County has been reached and the victory will be yours.

SHALL HOUSE BILL NO. 620 BE APPROVED AS PASSED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY JANUARY 16, 1920, BY THE GOVERNOR FEBRUARY 16, 1920, AND FILED WITH THE SECRETARY OF STATE FEBRUARY 17, 1920.

To the Voters of Allen County, Ohio

Next Tuesday is election day, and in the heat of a Presidential and state campaign the voters of this county should not lose sight of their own County interests. A Board of County Commissioners will be elected on that day and the personnel of this board is of vital interest to the taxpayers of this county.

Will the voters forget, on election day, the meeting held in Memorial Hall on March 6th, 1920, attended by 1200 taxpayers; the protest at that meeting against the proposed road program of two of our County Commissioners and the resolutions adopted? Will you forget that after this meeting one of the Commissioners, James MacKenzie, now a candidate for re-election, was quoted in the "Times-Democrat" of March 8th, 1920, as saying "Action taken Saturday afternoon at a meeting held in Memorial Hall, disapproving of the action of the County Commissioners in the matter of projected road improvement will not interfere with plans adopted?"

Shall we elect men to the office of County Commissioner who will conduct the office to suit themselves and for the benefit of their own selfish interests and who pay no attention to the expressed wishes of the taxpayers? Are you in favor of one man rule? Should the commissioners elected by the people serve the people instead of personal interests?

November 2nd, Is the Time To Remember

- 1—The road program proposed last spring that aroused the indignation of the taxpayers and led to the Memorial Hall meeting March 6th, 1920.
- 2—To scrutinize and examine the road contracts heretofore let by officials now seeking re-election at your hands.
- 3—To inquire and inform yourself as to how any candidate for the office of County Commissioner is financially interested in any business or enterprise that had profited by his official action in the past.
- 4—The Metcalf Street Bridge contract and the Spencerville Road resurfacing contract.
- 5—To disapprove by your votes, of past performances and high handed official behavior by electing:

Walter W. Craig, A. J. Gray, J. W. Thompson

If you do this we will elect men to the office of County Commissioner who will serve the people unselishly, expend the taxpayer's money economically and who will appreciate and regard the expressed wishes of their constituents.

Yours for better local government,

Republican Executive Committee

OHIO IS NATION'S BATTLE GROUNDS

"As Goes Ohio, So Goes the Country," is Revived.

TIDE STILL RUNS TO COX

President's Appeal to Conscience of His Countrymen.

WASHINGTON.—Eyes of the nation are turned today at the windup of the national campaign toward the Ohio Valley states, particularly toward Ohio, the home state of the two leading Presidential candidates, as holding the key to the Presidential contest that will terminate in a battle of ballots Tuesday. The cry, "Ohio goes so goes the nation," has been accepted by the leaders of both parties as indicative of the true situation with regard to the outcome of the Presidential fight.

That is why there has been such tremendous activity in the Buckeye state during the closing week of the campaign, and why both Governor Cox and Senator Harding concentrated their final efforts in one supreme attempt to carry their home state. The same may be said to a somewhat lesser degree of Indiana and West Virginia, two states which went for Hughes in 1916, and in both of which conservative Republican leaders admit and Democrats assert confidently that Governor Cox has a fighting chance to win.

Unbiased reports from all three of these states within the last ten days have placed them in the doubtful class, and it is only from party headquarters that exaggerated claims of majorities emanate.

The prophet who one month ago would have dared to predict that Ohio, Indiana, and West Virginia were debatable ground would have been laughed out of court by the knowing ones, whose estimates of Republican majorities in these states exceeded figures which never have been approached in previous elections, not even in the Roosevelt landslide of 1904.

But there has been an awakening of the conscience of the American people on the League of Nations issue since that time, and Governor Cox and his supporters on the stump throughout the country have been sounding away solely on that issue ever since the drift in sentiment started to manifest itself. Against this solid lineup of Democratic oratory and argument in behalf of the League has been matched the shifting attitude of Senator Harding and the two diametrically opposed groups of his supporters, led on the one hand by such League of Nations advocates as former President Taft, Elihu Root, and Herbert Hoover, and on the other by the two foremost treaty advocates, Senator Hiram Johnson and W. E. Borah.

The result has been confusion and chaos in the Republican camp, leading to wholesale desertions of lifelong Republicans to the Cox cause on the League of Nations issue, and quickening of the activities of Democratic workers throughout the country who had come home to look upon their cause as hopeless in the face of the confident claims of the opposition, which Democratic managers have contended all along were but part of a gigantic scheme to stampede the country into support of Senator Harding.

Newspapermen accompanying Governor Cox on his swing through New England and the East said here last Sunday night that something akin to religious fervor gripped the tremendous audiences that turned out to greet him and his tour took on the form of a religious crusade, which did not reach its height until the nominee reached West Virginia and Ohio last week.

There has been also an appreciable change noted at Democratic national headquarters in New York city in the number and amount of campaign contributions. Hundreds of letters breathing devotion to the cause of the League of Nations and containing contributions ranging from twenty-five cents to $25 are being received daily from men and women of moderate means, while the responses of large contributors have been far in excess of what former donations had led the National Committee to expect.

The truth is that things have been breaking badly for the Republicans for the last three weeks; in fact, they have had a steady run of ill luck ever since the Des Moines speech of Senator Harding in which he unequivocally turned his back on the League of Nations covenant.

Republicans for a time ridiculed references to a turn in the tide for Governor Cox, but there have been evidences, allore during the last ten days that they have sensed a change from the rosy outlook of a few weeks ago.

Syndicate writers and alleged impartial observers who in their travels about the country have been conceding every state north of the Mason and Dixon's line and west of the Mississippi river to Senator Harding, are revising their calculations and their estimates and are now admitting that there could be a combination of circumstances that would bring victory to the Democratic nominee.

Little reliable news is coming out of the west these days, but Republican managers continue to claim every one of the western states, save a couple of small ones, which they say may be doubtful. Yet it was these same states, as confidently grouped in the Hughes column four years ago which turned the tide for President Wilson. No one professes to know how the women of that section feel toward the League of Nations, yet they too are listed for the Republican nominee. Republican estimates seem to be based solely on the record of President Wilson and the desire of the people of this country for a change in administration at Washington, without regard to either or candidates of what they stand for.

As summed up here in Washington on the eve of election, the situation is: Democrats hopeful; Republicans sure. The Democratic managers are working day and night to press the advantage which they insist has swung to their sides, while the Republicans are apparently taking it easy, secure in the thought that nothing can happen to overcome the tremendous margin which they have enjoyed from the outset of the campaign.

from Ohio, which is admittedly the decisive battleground of the nation. Republicans are claiming the state by a majority of not less than 100,000, and to an extent, they are supported by the polls that have been taken by newspapers and other agencies. But the Democratic leaders will not concede the state to the opposition. They say the reversal of sentiment from Harding to Cox is more pronounced in Ohio than in any other section, and that his trip in Ohio this week has won him thousands of Republican and independent voices in the League of Nations. Republicans undoubtedly have a big advantage in the negro vote, which according to reports, is organized better than ever this year. There are evidences also of racial and dissatisfied groups, which if borne out at the election, will cut deeply into the Democratic vote. It would seem from an impartial viewpoint, therefore, that the verdict in Ohio will be determined as it will be in other doubtful states, on whether the revolt of the prominent independents and intellectuals throughout the country from the Republican nominees will be reflected in the votes of the thousands of independents in the rank and file of both parties. Ohio has shown, as in 1916, that the independent and thinking vote really holds the balance of power in elections, and if the League of Nations proves to be the outstanding issue that its champions claim for it, a victory for Cox in Ohio is not at all unlikely. The dominant note, however, of political experts who have been in Ohio during the last two weeks, is that "Vic" Donahey will triumph over Harry Davis for Governor, regardless of the outcome of the Presidential fight. Very little attention has been paid by outsiders to the Senatorial contest, which seems to have been overshadowed by the Presidential and Gubernatorial contests, but again, if the League of Nations is approved by Ohio voters, the odds would favor W. A. Julian, the Democratic candidate.

Similar conditions obtain largely in Indiana and West Virginia, altho local conditions probably enter into the contests to a greater extent. By carrying all three of these states, Governor Cox would have a big advantage over the Wilson vote of 1916, while Democrats point out that should he be successful in Indiana and West Virginia and lose Ohio he would be within one electoral vote of that obtained by President Wilson in that section four years ago.

The latest blunder of the Republicans, and one which seems to be attended with serious consequences, was the reproduction in Harvey's Weekly of the cartoon entitled "President Wilson's League of Nations, the Immaculate Conception," based on Raphael's painting of the Immaculate Conception. It first was denounced by Allard A. Ryan, of New York City, when he sent $25,000 to the Democratic National Committee to help defeat Republicans responsible for the "blasphemy," and since has aroused a flood of indignation throughout the country. The denunciation of this affront to thousands of citizens of this country became so widespread that Chairman Will Hays of the Republican National Committee issued a statement last week repudiating the cartoon on the part of himself as well as of the National Committee. Hays admitted that the cartoon was sent out by a syndicate which supplies political caricatures to newspapers for the Republican National Committee, but he said it was suppressed when it came to the attention of Scott C. Bone, Republican Director of Publicity. It was after this, however, that the cartoon appeared in Harvey's Weekly and in the National Republican, the weekly organ of the Republican party, edited by one of Hays' closest political friends from Indiana, Col. Harvey, editor of Harvey's Weekly, sat in the early morning conference at Chicago at which it was decided to nominate Senator Harding, and has passed much time at Senator Harding's home in Marion since August in an advisory capacity.

Immense sums have been sent to Ohio by the Republican National Committee to further the candidacy of Senator Harding, according to the reports filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives by the Republican National and Congressional Committee. A total of $87,000 had been sent to George H. Clark, chairman of the Republican state committee, up to last Monday while remittances made direct to George B. Christian, secretary to Senator Harding, at Marion, aggregate $60,815.03.

The allotments to Chairman Clark include one item of $25,000, designated "returns to state," indicating that it was a remittance of part of the fund raised in Ohio. The several amounts sent to Chairman Clark range from $7,500 to $25,000 and extend over a period of three months. There is another item of $1,000 sent to Harry M. Daugherty and one of $7,000 to Jess W. Smith, at Columbus on July 7.

The report of the Republican Congressional Committee shows that 14 of the 22 Republican nominees for Congress in Ohio have received financial assistance in sums ranging from $500 to $1,500 each.

Expenditures of the two candidates for Congress in the Fourth district according to their sworn statements on file here, were as follows: B. F. Welty, Democrat, $523.85; John L. Cable, Republican, $763.20.

The delegation of pro-League Republicans and Independents which called on President Wilson last Wednesday came near forgetting all about his mission so great was the shock experienced by its members because of the President's physical appearance. The visitors had been led by White House bulletins from time to time to expect that they would be greeted by a man well on the road to recovery and were not prepared for the changes his long illness had wrought.

Consequently their comment upon leaving the White House was more about the President's condition than of what he had said to them. A statement which they gave out described the occasion as "inexpressibly solemn and tender" and declared that it was nothing less than tragic "that the great President of the United States should have been brought to such a stricken physical condition as a result of his indefatigable labors for the country and humanity." One of these visitors, plainly disengaged that the strain of the League of Nations fight and other official cares had undermined the health of the President, described his appearance as "pathetic."

Mentally the President was said to be alert, vigorous, forceful, and even aggressive. All were agreed as to that. Physically, Mr. Wilson's appearance is said to have been that of a man who has aged much in a year, whose hair has grown much whiter, whose voice has lost its former resonance and whose bodily im-firmities have borne down heavily upon a combative will and a once sturdy frame.

It was the first speech the President has made since he was stricken more than a year ago. He sat in a wheel chair while addressing the delegation and exhibited plainly his emotion when he reached passages in his address wherein he referred to the horrors of war, such as "mothers and sisters and wives of the country know the sacrifice of war." His low voice, barely audible in the small room, his graying hairs, and general appearance of care and long suffering left a vivid picture on the minds of his small audience, which they are called upon to make.

marvelled at the will of the man, recorded sympathetically in their hearts in understanding of the tragedy it was liable to see. Members of the delegation voiced the opinion that it might be "the final appeal direct to the consciousness of his countrymen in the supreme moral decision they are called upon to make."

Free Demonstration of Electric Wash Machines, Electric Dish Washers, Electric Sweepers and Electrical Appliances of All Kinds

STARTING MONDAY

and Lasting Throughout the Whole Week

Premier ELECTRIC CLEANER

Sweeping and dusting are hardest among women's tasks, because they involve moving furniture about, handling rugs, climbing the step-ladder, shaking curtains, etc. This is tiresome and needless labor which results in backache and a frazzled disposition. And when all is done the place is seldom cleaned. "THE PREMIER" asks only a bit of electric current—and the work is begun. Why not have a "PREMIER" Cleaner in your home?—The cost is low—the efficiency high. "PREMIER" Cleaners clean Rugs, Curtains, Draperies, Pillows, Mattresses, Walls, Moulding, Furniture—in fact everywhere that dirt and dust collect.

Meet "Miss Craig"

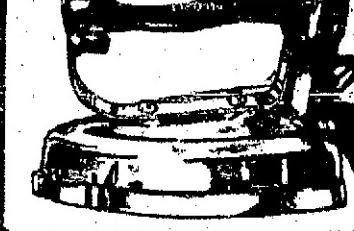

All This Week at the "Gregg" Store

Commencing tomorrow morning and lasting throughout the whole of this week, Miss Craig, well known among demonstrators as the "Hotpoint Home Economist" will give several demonstrations in the Display Windows of our store—You should not fail to see her—She will show you how easy it is to cut your daily home tasks in half with electrical appliances of all types.

Every home will welcome one or more of these many useful electrical pieces—in the twinkling of an eye you can toast bread, broil meats, fry potatoes, pop corn, prepare coffee—and perform most every daily household task that confronts the weary housewife day after day. Don't fail to see Miss Craig—next week—Gregg's Display windows.

'Hot Point' Electric Irons

Anything worth while having or wanting has many outstanding features, and this is no exception, with the "Hotpoint" Iron. The "Hotpoint" Iron has THUMB LEVER which makes ironing easy. COOL HANDLES, no longer necessary—no heat radiates upward. IRON STAND—You simply tin iron upon your ironing board—no lifting or bending onto separate stand.

CHOOSE NOW FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

A small Down Payment Will Hold Any Article Listed Here Until Such a Time When You Will Be Ready to Have Us Deliver Same to Your Home.

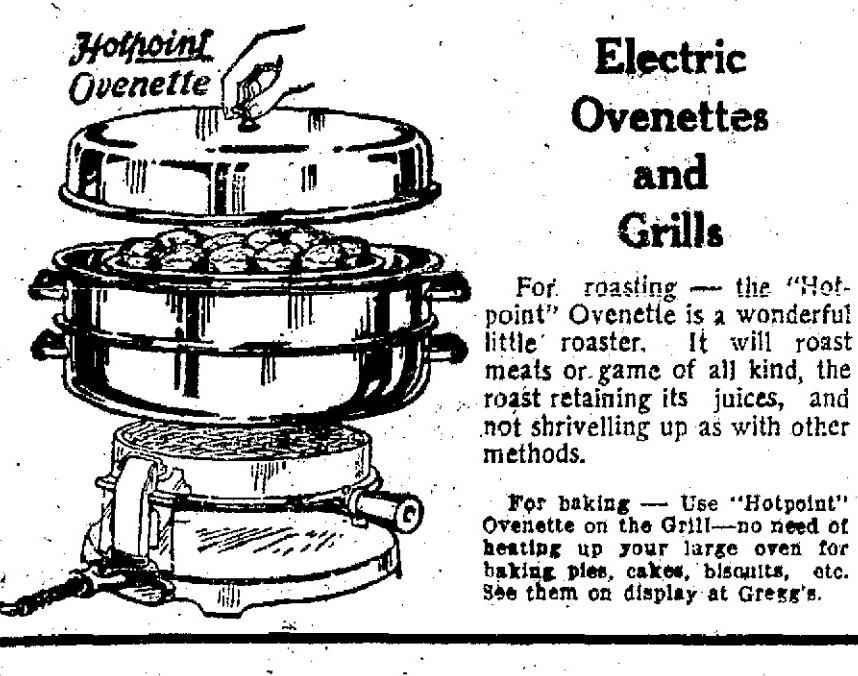

Have you been thinking of including an Electric Sweeper—Electric Washer or some other electrical article among the list of useful gifts you will make this year?—If not, what would make a more substantial and appreciated gift than something of this kind?—a something that will reduce the drudgery of house-work?

Make your selection during this demonstration while the finer points of these wonderful electrical workings are still fresh in your mind—A small down payment will hold any article for you until such a time when you will be ready for same.

"Sidney" Electric Washing Machines

Any Washing Machine on the market today is better than the tub and wash board method. This fact is universally recognized. Power washers are not only more convenient and efficient, but they are more economical. That they have forever abolished a big item of household drudgery is but one feature that recommends them.

THE SIDNEY WASHING MACHINE is the successful result of a serious and painstaking effort to develop the Power Washer to 100 per cent perfection. Mechanically it is a vivid improvement over any other existing washing machine. Its basic cleansing principle is scientifically sound. More than these—it offers conveniences and economies heretofore unknown. See them this week at Gregg's.

Electric Ovenettes and Grills

For roasting—the "Hotpoint" Ovenette is a wonderful little roaster. It will roast meats or game of all kinds, the roast retaining its juices, and not shriveling up as with other methods.

For baking—Use "Hotpoint" Ovenette on the Grill—no need of heating up your large oven for baking pies, cakes, biscuits, etc. See them on display at Gregg's.

Don't Fail to See Window Demonstrations All Next Week at Gregg's

Hotpoint

The word "HOTPOINT" stands for all that is meant in those two mighty words—"QUALITY" and "SERVICEABILITY"—Ask me to show you "HOTPOINTS"—you will be delighted with their appearance and pleased with their service qualities. See the special display all this week at Gregg's.

Electric Percolators

"HOT POINT" percolated Coffee contains no strong, sharp tasting ingredients which makes boiled coffee "get on one's nerves." Among our many models and sizes of "Hotpoint" percolators you'll be sure to find one that will suit your needs. See them all this week at Gregg's.

"Electric" Dish Washers

This is a wonderful piece of machinery developed by the ever laboring mind of man—just think of it—you can sit down to a good-sized meal, enjoy it—get up—gather the dishes together—put them in the Electric Dish-Washer—and like magic the dishes one after the other come out perfectly clean and highly polished—No putting your hands in injurious soapy water. See them all this week on demonstration at the Gregg Store.

HERE IS WORK FOR THE LEAGUE

Columbus Voter Gives Reasons For This Belief

WOMEN LEADING THE WAY

B. O. P. Head Knocks off 100,000 on Ohio Claim

(BY MARCUS)

COLUMBUS — There never was such a campaign as the one which closed on Monday night. One was almost tempted to say as the one which closed tonight, but second thought tells one that it is a campaign under which firing continues until the armistice hour of opening of the polls. lofty ideals and drab realities have had an equal share. One man discusses the League of Nations, another talks about the negro candidates for high places of power in Ohio, as for instance the members of the General Assembly. Or one man discusses state problems while another talks of crime in Cleveland. Tasks in campaign documents vary, too. One man seeks to find a copy of the Covenant of the League of Nations, another wants a copy of the "Buck-Nile Nine," and candidates and others which includes the "Segregation Sotette" as the six black candidates for the General Assembly are known. The Democrats are issuing the League while a Cleveland negro has issued the nine pictures under the alluring title of "Equality for All." Thus it goes. It is a peculiar campaign.

In speaking of this peculiarity, one deals largely with what is on the surface. The war waves have left a strange flotsam and jetsom on the top. But deep down there is an earnestness that cannot be ignored. There is indication of a profound moral purpose in the voters for never before have they taken home with them to read such quantities of what is known in campaigns as "literature." The fieble stuff, the cheap partisan material has not been in demand. People have asked original source supplies, using in Ohio literally hundreds of thousands of copies of documents. Now many copies of the League have been issued it is impossible to say, for all ordinary agencies of distribution were swamped long ago with requests and they have grown as the day of decision nears. Never before was there such a reading electorate, and never before such a silent vote. The condition has baffled many of the wisest and even those who are taking canvass and straw votes say they know less now as to how the state is going than they did a month ago. The writer has this on the very highest authority and adds a bit of information the knocking off of 100,000 claim in one day an Republican State Chairman Clark did a few days ago.

This one point seems to be universally acknowledged. Ohio sentiment has crystallized for the League of Nations. Changes in style of campaign and appeal are best proof of this. In some parts as in Akron, it is true that there is still evidence of following the leadership of Hiram W. Johnson, but in other places the Grand Old Party editors put Hiram and William E. Borah on the inside pages and put Herbert Hoover and William M. Taft on the outside. The moral impulse that has been put into the campaign is one of the greatest developments in political affairs in Ohio. Indeed every observer who has made a canvass is not wrong. A recent canvass of the state thru the motion picture show patrons disclosed that the pro-league sentiment is running two to one and this does not seem to be exaggerated. Others put it still higher and practical cessation of the opposition to the League along iron-clad lines is indicative of the stirring of the conscience of the nation. Ohio has shared in this awakening. Again, the impulse has come from the country to the city on the universal and eternal peace program and women have seized the initiative from the men and are actually guiding them in their decisions. It is small wonder that the men most confused are those who tried the oldest methods.

Long ago a keen philosopher told this purveyor of truth that smart men had been married to women for thirty years without being certain of what they would do under given circumstances. It is small wonder then that the coin-distributing type of politicians were puzzled in handling them. So the individuals who began to handle them in old-fashioned ways were at loss to know what to do when the women folks suggested that the family go to League of Nations meetings. It was a situation which got past the old machine and group organization plans. Men too, will follow after the German vote, the Italian vote and the negro vote where women will reject such plans. Misreading of the signs was a terrible mistake for those who sought to woo these different elec-ments. The largest throngs to hear about the League have been women and they are for it. An intensive advertising campaign in the final days before the election has left no doubt of the sentiment on the League. The pictures of the crosses in France have settled that proposition in the public mind of the white, thinking folks. Anti-League men do not like to look at them. Try this out on your anti-League neighbor, if any, if you doubt this yourself.

There have been many disagreeable features to the present campaign. The first was the fact that it took a Senatorial investigating committee to keep a pack of "mud-diggers" from piling up funds of millions upon millions of dollars. Then came the appeal to the people to stop the circulation of a clipping from the Anti-Saloon League over W. D. Fulton, Democrat, and is not opposed by the liberals. However, Fulton expects to make a good showing in the Eleventh where Nell G. Underwood is getting a hold on him. How the affair stands in the Fifth, Eighth and Fifteenth Districts is doubtful. It is nearly certain that the scathing condemnation of Charles Landau Knight, of Akron, by the American Legion, has injured the chances to win a Republican seat in the Fourteenth District. Knight bears the unique distinction of being the only congressional candidate in Ohio whose loyalty during the war has been assailed by the Legion. Some distinction, that! It was surprising this week when the Republican organization began drumming for votes in the Seventh District for old Doctor Fess, indicating that the old fellow was in more trouble than he knew. There are lots of Republicans who are looking for a political dog button for him, if only as a means of getting rid of the surplus Fesses who now adorn the payroll at Washington. As an experiment in sociology, many Republicans tell this purveyor of truth that they would like to see whether they can make a living in civil life. That's all.

Extraneous issues for which no one sees to be responsible is giving the Attorney Generalship contest a peculiar underground interest. Joseph McCloskey, Democratic aspirant, has not raised the issue of religious affiliation against John G. Price, Republican incumbent and candidate for re-election, but Price thinks he has because the story is general. Price's friends have begun a separate billboard campaign in his behalf and hope to offset the defections that are inevitable to raising of a religious issue. On the other hand, he will break when they hired an ex-preacher to defend him. W. H. Freeman, of Wooster, was advertised as a real minister but has since been disclosed as an insurance agent who has not had a charge in nearly a generation. This crime issue, combined with the taxation issue, has made the way more difficult for him.

Aside from Davis, there is little interest in the state candidates. Judge Harvey C. Smith has been opposed for re-election by a handful of Republicans because of his election rulings in the presidential primary. His record has not been attacked and some observers think he will lead the Republican ticket. He is preferred by the Anti-Saloon League over W. D. Fulton, Democrat, and is not opposed by the liberals. However, Fulton expects to make a good showing in the Eleventh where Nell G. Underwood is getting a hold on him. How the affair stands in the Fifth, Eighth and Fifteenth Districts is doubtful. It is nearly certain that the scathing condemnation of Charles Landau Knight, of Akron, by the American Legion, has injured the chances to win a Republican seat in the Fourteenth District. Knight bears the unique distinction of being the only congressional candidate in Ohio whose loyalty during the war has been assailed by the Legion. Some distinction, that! It was surprising this week when the Republican organization began drumming for votes in the Seventh District for old Doctor Fess, indicating that the old fellow was in more trouble than he knew. There are lots of Republicans who are looking for a political dog button for him, if only as a means of getting rid of the surplus Fesses who now adorn the payroll at Washington. As an experiment in sociology, many Republicans tell this purveyor of truth that they would like to see whether they can make a living in civil life. That's all.

When Frank B. Willis was called from the stump by reason of illness in his family, Republican leaders said he had the chance for the state ticket improved. In other years, Willis has been effective, but not in this. The political workers have grown tired of seeing him and nearly every paper in Ohio has printed the intelligence that he had several tilts with mothers of soldiers. When taken in connection with Willis' own war record, which all but caused the corruption in the August primaries when $100,000 was spent on the Governorship and having failed to prosecute the report of the special grand jury which flayed the era of crime in Cleveland. For this many law-enforcement societies have sent instructions against him.

There are few congressional contests which hold any decided interest. The Fifth, Eleventh, Eighth, Twelfth and Fifteenth Districts may be in doubt, but few other are. In Columbus, General John C. Speaks has a chance to defeat Arthur Lanigan, Democrat, while Congressman Rickards, of Logan, is clearly in trouble in the Eleventh where Nell G. Underwood is getting a hold on him. How the affair stands in the Fifth, Eighth and Fifteenth Districts is doubtful. It is nearly certain that the scathing condemnation of Charles Landau Knight, of Akron, by the American Legion, has injured the chances to win a Republican seat in the Fourteenth District. Knight bears the unique distinction of being the only congressional candidate in Ohio whose loyalty during the war has been assailed by the Legion. Some distinction, that! GASOLINE as a liquid is powerless. It is the latent heat pent up in this highly combustible fluid which is the source of power for driving motor cars. The fuel consumption of an automobile depends upon the amount of this heat which may be extracted from the fuel, and the quantity of power necessary to move the automobile.

Scripps-Booth engineers have developed a carburetion and manifold system which extracts the maximum of heat energy from the gasoline. Combined with this they have produced a car of moderate weight that requires but a proportionately small amount of power to move.

The result is that the new Scripps-Booth six-cylinder motor cars are almost unbelievably economical for automobiles of such generous proportions.

Aside from Chief Justice one hears ticket. Judge Hugh L. Nichols has been making an intensive drive. The newspapers of the state give him endorsement, including the Plain Dealer, Toledo Blade and Cincinnati Times-Star. The reason they turned their backs on C. T. Marshall, his opponent, is not clear but the statement presented is that Nichols' administration has been so good it should be continued without prejudice to the other candidate. Justices E. S. FARMERS FLOCK TO SOUTH

Beckoned by Alluvial Empire of Super-Soil

GO TO LOWER MISSISSIPPI

25,000,000 Acres in Fertile District Along American Nile

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—The tide of immigration which has been westward for centuries, is beginning to swing southward. Homeseekers are finding the newest wonderland along the lower Mississippi River, in the "American Nile Valley." Remarkable population growth, indicated in the late census returns, shows that this new general farming region is in its boom infancy.

Greatest interest of farmers centers in the alluvial or deposited soil region, which embraces 25,000,000 acres, starting at the mouth of the Ohio River, in Southern Illinois and Southeastern Missouri, and extending to the Gulf of Mexico, with great areas of richest bottoms in Eastern Arkansas, Western Mississippi, and Eastern Louisiana.

Practically the whole region—as big as the combined areas of Delaware, Maryland, Rhode Island, Connecticut and then some—has been a wilderness until the last few years. Levees to protect it from high water stages of the Mississippi River; drainage ditches to carry off surplus surface water, and the discovery that artesian wells can be "brought in" anywhere in the region are the three great factors that are paving the way for development.

The Mississippi River finally has been controlled by levees or earthen embankments, so that no floods in the lower valley are now feared. Drainage districts, organized like road districts, handle drainage problems. These undertakings have had the support of the United States Government, which has contributed some $200,000,000 to the nation's greatest reclamation project.

Effective protection against water and the excellent water from artesian wells for drinking purposes have contributed enormously to improvement of health conditions, so that the region now has none of the dangers that it had ten years ago or even five years ago.

Immigration has increased steadily and thriving new towns now exist where there were timber tracts ten years ago. Towns twenty years old have had phenomenal growth, and the terms about them have been settled and put under the plough in proportion.

MANY GROWING TOWNS

Ozark County, in the northwestern corner of Arkansas, was once practically a wilderness. Its development started twenty years ago. Blytheville, Ark., its largest town, was twenty years old last spring. In 1910 it had a population of 3,849. In 1920 the population increased 67.5 per cent, now being 6,447. The county's population grew from 30,468 in 1910 to 47,320 in 1920, or 55.3 per cent.

Crittenden-co. nearby gained 30.6 per cent; Craighead County, 35.9 per cent; and Phillips-co. 32.8 per cent. The "bottom land" or alluvial soil counties of Arkansas made the greatest population gains of any counties in Arkansas.

Among the towns, few of which are more than twenty years old, population gains showing a tendency toward development include the following: Luxora, 76.8 per cent increase; Manilla, 72.8 per cent; Dallas, 116.6 per cent; McGehee, 105.3 per cent; Eudora, 97.7 per cent; Helena, 42 per cent; Lake Village, 34.9 per cent; Earle, 35.6 per cent.

Crittenden-co. gained 30.6 per cent; Craighead County, 35.9 per cent and Phillips-co. 32.8 per cent. The "bottom land" or alluvial soil counties of Arkansas made the greatest population gains of any counties in Arkansas.

What is true of the Arkansas alluvial counties also is true of the Mississippi "delta" region and the Louisiana alluvial soil region. The settlers are becoming more and more numerous.

Greenwood, Miss., in the heart of the famous "Yazoo Delta" of Mississippi, had a population growth of 33.5 per cent. Grandal, Miss., which boasted 25 people in 1910, now has 500. Cahiers, Miss., grew 64 per cent. Talahatchie County, a "bottom county," gained 23.5 per cent in population.

EXODUS OF NEGROES

The figures are considered striking in view of the small per cent gain in total population for the States as a whole, due largely to the great exodus of the negro population. Whereas Mississippi's 1920 population shows a decrease since 1910, the "bottom counties" show big gains, indicating that the rich soil of the bottom cot ties, is attracting large numbers of white farmers, many of whom are from the Northern States. They are finding that a growing season of ten months each year makes it possible to raise livestock at a minimum cost of production, and that two crops of many products, such as clover after wheat or oats; two yields of corn, etc., are assets of tremendous worth. They are finding also that the land values are much below those in the older farming regions, while, on the other hand, the soil is of such quality that its carrying capacity is certain to make the land more and more valuable.

"An alluvial empire of super-soil" is the way the folks of the lower Mississippi Valley refer to the country.

ILLINOIS CONTEST

HARDING DENIES ANY PLEDGE

Made no Campaign Promises, He Declares at Columbus

NO APOLOGY FOR HIS RECORD

Senator Again Attacks the League of Nations

COLUMBUS—No political campaign which cannot be carried on in the American newspapers will succeed, Senator Warren G. Harding told vast audience in Memorial Hall here Saturday night in the final speech of his campaign.

Senator Harding made no direct reference to personalities which have figured in rumors prevalent during the closing days of the campaign.

"I would scorn to come here tonight with a personal campaign," Harding said.

"There is nothing in his record which calls for apology," Harding said.

As to the charges by Governor Cox that Senator Harding has made various promises to political supporters, the Republican nominee denied them.

MADE NO PLEDGE

"I haven't made a pre-convention pledge to anybody," he said.

Harding told his audience that he was a neighbor living only 45 miles away.

"I have been more or less in the public service of Ohio for 20 years and there is a record of it which includes no betrayal, which calls for no apology," he said. "I have been your neighbor living only 45 miles away, engaged as a newspaper publisher and I have never apologized for the newspaper, or my part in its making. I rejoice to have a part in the free press of America. And I have that faith in America, and the intelligence of the American people that no campaign will succeed in this republic which cannot be carried on in the American press."

MADE NO PLEDGE

"One thing rather personal I cannot resist. Ohio knows what the country knows, how I was nominated. Ohio knows how free I am; Ohio knows as the country knows that no group, no interests, no sections brought about my nomination. I haven't a pre-convention pledge to anybody in America. I didn't make a promise to anybody inside or outside the convention during its sittings, and I haven't made a promise since the convention except to the American people."

"Great and sacred responsibilities fall upon a president of the United States, but I have thought from the beginning of this campaign, that great responsibilities rest also upon the candidate for that high office. I think a man owes it to the American people to conduct himself with dignity and with exact truth and sincerity. I think it should be his endeavor to put whole mind upon the careful presentation of a wise program for our future. I think he should put his whole soul into the attempt to unite in Americans other than to divide them. I think he should put his whole soul into the hope that whether he is to be elected—as I expect to be—or not, his campaign should serve to raise the minds and hearts and souls of his countrymen to nobler thought and higher purpose and finer conscience."

Harding renewed his attack on the League of nations covenant expressing the hope, however, that America could translate the conscience of the world to a new order."

OBITUARY

Verline Dale Eaton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Eaton, was born at Grover Hill, Ohio, December 18, 1903. Departed this life October 20, 1920, age 16 years, 10 months, 2 days. He leaves to mourn his loss a mother, father, two sisters, Mrs. Fred Dresser and Mrs. Charles Carmean, and one brother, Mr. Oscar Eaton, two nieces and one nephew. The host of friends along with those which he leaves will also mourn his loss. As a student in the public schools, he has always accredited himself to the best of his ability in all lines of his endeavor. His spirit of comradeship and leadership has been strong and fully recognized and appreciated by his teachers and classmates in his school life. In home life too he has not only been a joy to his family but also to his many friends who continually called for him when he was free from his work to join them in their sports. A voice that has always responded cheerfully and merrily will be sadly missed but its influence will live for it was the voice of a sincere, happy boy.

MEN AND WOMEN OF LIMA A VOTE FOR THE CHARTER IS A VOTE

For the proven BEST of all forms of City Government.

For more efficiency in City affairs.

For a Lima Charter--A Lima Home-Rule Code--drafted by Lima people and designed to fit Lima's particular needs.

For cutting out BOSS RULE and partisanship in City affairs.

For better results for each dollar expended.

For Efficiency and not political-pull to determine who shall hold City jobs.

For creating a Purchasing Department that will save the City thousands of dollars per year.

For the right to have a voice in the election of EVERY CITY COMMISSIONER, instead of for One Ward Councilman, as now.

For the right TO RECALL any commissioner who is inefficient.

For a business-like method of controlling city affairs.

For a charter that locates absolute responsibility for every city activity. Citizens will not be shuttled back and forth between departments.

For a Charter that will make Lima a greater, better governed city with full legal authority for many powers it cannot exercise under the present aldermanic form.

The 15 men you elected in November, 1919, to draw up the Lima Charter represented every part of Lima and every walk of life. They worked faithfully—WITHOUT PAY—for nine months. To get every bit of information possible, they visited cities having the Commission Manager Government. They carefully selected the proven BEST ELEMENTS, and weeded out the weak links from all these other cities' charters.

They conferred also, with the very best experts that have made Charter Government a study for many years. After the Lima Charter was completed, these experts pronounced it the best Charter in the United States.

Here is the result then of your Commissioners' many months work:—they have given to you, the very best City Code within their power. It is now the duty of every Lima Man and Woman to carefully weigh their action; whether you wish to continue the wasteful methods of the present government; OR, whether you want Lima to have an efficient, modern, tax-reducing government that makes for a Better City.

CENTRAL HI SQUAD ADDS ANOTHER VICTORY TO STRING

NOTRE DAME WALLOPS ARMY IN ANNUAL GAME—LIMA SIGNALS PLAY COLUMBUS GROVE MAROONS HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

O. S. U. AND ILLINOIS LEAD CONTENDERS IN TITLE RACE

CHICAGO.—Ohio State and Illinois Saturday night stood at the top of the western football championship.

Chicago fell Saturday before Ohio. Next Saturday Ohio will play Michigan at Columbus, and the impression of those who watched Saturday's game was that Wilcox's squad would have to improve or the Michigan team would give them a close run. Illinois will play Chicago in what will undoubtedly be a hard-fought battle.

In case the Buckeyes beaten the storm then Illinois defeats Chicago, the championship will be decided the following week at Urbana when Illini and Ohio meet. This was the identical situation in the conference last year when the Illini snatched the championship from Ohio at Columbus in the deciding game.

Illinois' victory over Minnesota was not such a large score as had been expected, but Williams has undoubtedly braced up his squad considerably in the two weeks rest.

Indiana won a close, hard-fought game from Northwestern. Purdue had a hard time beating Wabash.

NAVY SWAMPS W. R. 47-0

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—The Navy swam Western Reserve 47 to 0 in their annual gridiron battle. The midshipmen had everything their own way during the entire game, except in the last quarter when the visitors launched a vigorous aerial attack. Only once was the Reserve team within hailing distance of the Navy goal. A forward pass brought the ball inside the Navy's 25-yard line.

THIS HAS BEEN A GREAT YEAR FOR ALL SPORTS

BY BILL BARLOW,
Sporting Editor.

THE year of nineteen hundred and twenty will go down in the annals of sportdom as one of the most remarkable in history.

Events that have occurred on the diamond, on track and field, on the turf, on tennis courts and golf links, and on the water have made sport history of other years pale by comparison.

The fact that this is a presidential year and that the country is in the midst of reconstruction following the World War, has not detracted one iota from public interest in big sporting circles.

The homage paid to such stars of sport as Babe Ruth, Tris Speaker and his Cleveland Indians, Georges Carpenter, Jack Dempsey, Man o' War, and others has been astonishing.

While it is impossible to begin to estimate correctly the number of millions who have witnessed sports throughout this great land of ours, or the millions of dollars that have been taken in at the box offices and turnstiles, it is altogether safe to say that in round total figures the last previous records have been shattered.

BASEBALL THE RAGE

Baseball, the rage of the nation, enjoyed one of its best years. The world's series was staged in a blaze of glory, and with the cloud of the 1919 world's series scandal hanging over the game.

But the Indians and Dodgers played the 1920 series on its merits, and the game itself is too big to be morally hurt by the traitorous work of a few gamblers and a small group of weak-charactered players who listened to the voice of the tempter. The races in both major leagues were followed with keen interest by the fans. The final outcome was not known in either league until the Dodgers and Indians were penitent under the shadow of the pennant pole.

Likewise, the pennant races in minor leagues throughout the country were followed by the fans in the various sections with keenest interest. The minors had a great year.

REMARKABLE BABE RUTH

The one big individual feat in baseball was Babe Ruth's shattering of the world's — his own — home-run record with a grand total of fifty-four circuit clouts.

The race for the batting championships, won by George Sisler and Rogers Hornsby, of the rival St. Louis clubs, was another feature.

MAN O' WAR

In much the same manner as Ruth helds the center of the stage in the realm of baseball as an individual star, Man o' War, Samuel D. Riddle's great racing stallion, looks up as a flashing comet of unequalled brilliance.

The great three-year-old champion, after winning every classic in which he was entered, defeated Commander J. N. L. Ross' great horse, Sir Barton, at Winsor, Can., on Columbus Day, in the greatest match race that has ever been run in this country.

Horse racing, both on the turf and in the harness division, enjoyed one of the greatest years in its history in America. Many thousands of racing fans have watched the big blue ribbon events of the year in the East, West, South and in Cuba.

BONING REVIVAL

Boxing, altho it had its real come-back last year and was revived in a noticeable degree thru the winning of the world's championship by Jack Dempsey, has enjoyed a most wonderful year. The invasion of Georges Carpenter, the Dempsey-Mike fight and the Carpenter-Leminsky fight have been the high spots of the year in boxing up to this writing. The comeback of the game in New York State, with a law permitting fifteen-round bouts to a decision, added stimulon to boxing.

OLYMPIC GAMES FOR U. S.

The Olympic games at Antwerp were the beginning of the track and field competition of the world by the United States. It was a feature of the games.

For the fact that the foreigners of the world outside of the United States were unable to compete against the Yankees with the strength they showed in their tracks, it is to be noted that if there had been no athletes on the part of the United States, there would have been greater interest in the American games. Its trials and victories, and

SIGNALS MEET MAROONS IN GAME HERE

At the Murphy-St. park Sunday afternoon, the Lima Signals gridiron squad will battle the Columbus Grove Maroons. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Since their game last Sunday when they walloped the Bellefontaine Independents, the Signals have greatly improved and present indications point to a hard game.

The Columbus Grove Maroons have been playing a fine brand of ball this season and have tackled some of the best independent outfits in northwestern Ohio.

A number of Bluffton football players have been recruited by the Maroons for the game and will present a strong line on the field for the game.

Both teams will average around 150 pounds.

The Signals' goal line has not been crossed by any of their opponents yet this season in a number of games played abroad.

They will line up as follows: Phalen, Ig.; Shappell, Ig.; Taylor, Ig.; Fisher, c.; White, rg.; Hasel, rt.; Blackburn or Stahl, rb.; Rager or Cox, pb.; Warren, Locker or Wigging, rh.; West, lb.; and Lew Wigging, lh.

Next Sunday the Signals will play Delphos here.

CLASS DAY AT CENTRAL HI FRIDAY

Central High school will stage its annual "Class Day" on Friday, Nov. 5th. This year the events will be more numerous and the color displays bigger than ever before.

The school will march in a body thru the business district of the town and then to the college grounds where the events will take place.

This year Junior High will take an active interest in the meet as well as the four upper classes. The "Class Day" was started some years ago to take the place of the flag dashes that were formerly held at the high school.

ALL TAKE PART

With the "Class Day" system all classes shall have equal chance and the girls have an opportunity to take part in the events.

SOUTH III WILL HOLD A MEET SIMILAR TO THE CENTRAL MEET ON NOV. 12.

Judges for the "Class Day" will be Principal R. E. Offenbauer, Dean Wright, G. W. Lemon and Coach Dotrick.

"Class Day" is under the direction of Fred Wallace and Miss Knisely who have been training the students for the events and have arranged the program.

The events will be as follows:

100 yard dash—Boys—Two entries from each Senior class; 4 from each Junior class.

Girls' stake put—Entries same as 100 yard dash.

Boys' 440 yard race—Entries same as boys' race.

Boys' burden race—10 yards—Two teams from each Senior class; four from each Junior class.

Girls' relay—25 yard; teams same as burden race.

Boys' 1-8 mite relay; one team from each class.

Tug of War—Boys—15 from each class.

The South and Central second year football game to be played Tuesday will be played strictly to the rules on eligibility formed by the Conference.

Principal Director Fred Wallace has been watching the basketball ability of the students in their gym hour and announces that he has discovered excellent material in both schools.

That both Central and South will have good teams is expected. Wallace is an expert on basketball, being responsible for the good showing made by Central the latter part of last year as he was acting coach to former Coach Haunstein's illness.

WRESTLING POPULAR

The wrestling game, also, enjoyed one of its best years, featured by the defeat of Earl Cardlock for the world's heavyweight title at the hands of Joe Stecher, the big Nebraska farmer boy.

The football season, now just half finished, will add its bright page to the year of sport, and when the last big classic has been staged there is no doubt that the man in minkins will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has done his bit.

YALE VICTOR; SCORE 21-7

NEW HAVEN.—(By United Press)

—For two periods in the game with Yale Saturday, Colgate played the game like a third rate bunch of rascals.

Ellis off their feet and gave Yale a third scare but the Blue men won eadily 21 to 7. Colgate came here with no reputation at all, being beaten or badly battered by every team she has met and at the end of the first quarter, it looked as tho Yale would up and do likewise. Yale scooped two touchdowns in the first 12 minutes but that fell off badly.

In the second and third quarters

Colgate completely outplayed the Blue, scoring one touchdown and gretting twice inside of Yale's 20-yard line. In the fourth period the Maroons kept up its good work and kept Yale on the jump.

WILSON TO BOX M'HENRY AGAIN

At the next Legion boxing carnival to be staged here about the middle of November, local promoters plan to again match Red Cap Wilson, Al-

McHenry said at the close of the

At the next carnival an eight

BOXING SEASON IS OFF WITH PUNCH

PRO'S BATTLE SUNDAY FOR LAURELS

CANTON — Rain or shine, the battle for the professional football championship of the world between Jim Thorpe's Canton Bulldogs and Elgie Tobin's Akron Pro's will be waged at Meyers Lake here today. The Akron team was to arrive here this morning.

The Bulldogs, led by Jim Thorpe, have eight men in their lineup selected by Walter Camp for his mythical All-American team. The Pro's have four men honored by Camp. But where the Akron team figures an advantage is that the majority of their players are just out of college during the last year or so.

FAVOR BULLDOGS

Betting here has favored the Bulldogs who have held the world title since 1915. The odds are small and it is thought the arrival of Akron sportsmen here today will swing the money back to even terms.

Akron has won four consecutive games this season, in fact, they have not been scored on as yet. The Bulldogs were held to a 29 to 20 tie by the Dayton Triangles, and Dick leaders Akron as much stronger than Dayton.

The Bulldogs have a decided advantage in weight, their line outweighing the Akron line at least five pounds to the man. The Canton backfield is also much heavier than the Pro's.

QUICKEN PACE TOWARD CAPTURE OF BIG TEN CONFERENCE TITLE, WHILE OPPONENTS ARE PRACTICALLY ELIMINATED FROM TITLE RACE

SUCKEYES ADVANCE NOTCH IN "BIG TEN" RACE SATURDAY

CHICAGO.—Chicago was eliminated as a Big Ten conference contender, when they were beaten by Ohio State 7 to 6 yesterday. The Ohio victory came in the last few minutes of play when a Maroon win seemed almost certain.

Chicago made its score in the first five minutes of play when Fullback Palmer picked up Cott's fumble and raced 50 yards over a clear field for a touchdown. Jackson failed at goal.

From then on, the Maroons played a tight game. Altho Pete Stinchcomb and H. Workman got away for numerous gains, the Stagg men held in the pinches and had the game clinched, apparently.

A weak punt by Stark on 15-yard line bounded across the field. Myers, his end, picked up the ball and carried it to the Maroon 29-yard line, before he was stopped. The Indians, with but little time left, lost and despite Chicago's valiant efforts worked the ball across a touchdown. C. Taylor kicked goal. Stinchcomb and Workman starred for the Ohio men. Both made numerous spectacular gains. Workman's punting averaged about 50 ft. in line-up.

IS SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY.

Judge Klinger Didn't Believe Winston's Alibi Story

Whereabouts of George Winston, negro, on the night the dwelling of Carl Matthie was entered and property taken therefrom, were carefully traced. When Winston told a highly-imaginative story to Judge Klinger Saturday, Winston pleaded guilty in court to entering an inhabited dwelling and stealing property there from.

A week ago he was not guilty. Judge Klinger listened to his tale. "I don't believe your story," the court said. "I could make up a better story than that and I was never there," Judge Klinger said. "I will sentence you to the state penitentiary and you may pay costs of prosecution."

Winston had hoped to secure a suspended sentence. His attorney, J. F. Evans, made a plea for him before Winston told his story. He was indicted jointly with Asa Hill, another negro, whose trial is set for November 4.

There are still some old-fashioned ladies who wear suspenders and can use both hands in their work.

LASKER PLAN JOLTED BY MINORS

CHICAGO.—That the "Lasker plan" in its present form be discarded, and a committee of nine practical baseball men, equally representing the American, National, and minor leagues, be appointed to draft in its place a plan for the reorganization of baseball along lines that will give the minors a voice in the government of the sport was the remedy made Saturday by the directors of the American League to the ultimatum issued Oct. 18 by eight National league and three American league club owners.

This ultimatum fixed Nov. 1 as the dead line before which the "loyal five" members of the American League were requested to indicate their intention to join the eleven crusaders against crooked baseball players, the alternative being the threat of a twelve club major league to eliminate the five American league clubs which were accused of blocking the movement to purify baseball.

COMPROMISE SUGGESTION

The answer made by the American League directors in special session in the offices of President Johnson Saturday labels the hastily drafted "Lasker plan" as inadequate to meet the crucial situation which exists in professional baseball and suggests a compromise measure, which is designed to produce a scheme for the government of the national sport which will be acceptable to the major league club owners, to the minor leaguers, and to the baseball public.

The American League directors virtually repudiated the "Lasker plan" as it stands, but in their official report did not state whether or not they would attend the meeting of the eleven crusaders here on Nov. 8.

Instead, a compromise was suggested whereby there shall be appointed a committee of three from each of the American and National leagues, and three from the National Association—the minors—to act as a joint committee for the preparation of a plan of reorganization, which must be reported back to the three parties as for ratification or disaffection before it shall take effect when satisfactory to all parties concerned.

ADDRESS ELEVEN MAGNATES

The resolution adopted by the American League directors is addressed to President Heydler and to each of the eight club owners of the National League and to the owners of the Chicago, New York, and Boston clubs of the American. It is signed by President Johnson, P. D. C. Ball of St. Louis, Frank J. Navin of Detroit, Clark C. Griffith of Washington, and Thomas S. Sheas of Philadelphia, constituting the directors of the American League.

The Whole Vile Structure of the Slanderers Crumbles Under the Avalanche of Evidence

Two Distinguished Ohioans, Both Democrats, Utterly Shatter and Destroy the Slanders Upon the Family of Warren G. Harding With The Searchlight of Direct Intimate and Personal Knowledge and After Complete Investigation

Prof. Chancellor, First With Pen, Again in Direct Conversation and Finally by the Processes of Law Repudiates and Denies the Statements Attributed to Him

Right and justice have prevailed, and before yesterday's sun went down The Journal had in its possession the absolute refutation of the unthinkable assault made upon Warren G. Harding and his family.

The evidence shows what the truth is, what the facts are. The evidence not only indicts the cowardly campaign of vilification, but it declares that this low and indefensible assault upon the Harding family name IS A LIE.

The Journal's evidence is short and to the point. It presents first the authoritative genealogy of the family of Warren G. Harding. Second, it presents the rigid investigation of this genealogy by the Honorable J. F. Prendergast, a distinguished and eminent resident of Marion, Ohio, and a Democrat, which destroys the whole fabric of lies which were at first secretly and then boldly distributed among the people.

The statement of this distinguished citizen of Ohio, who made this investigation is sufficient, but we go further and present the statement of the Honorable D. R. Crissinger, a member of one of the most honored law firms in the state of Ohio, head of the Marion Civic association, and also a member of the Democratic party whose evidence again smashes into splinters the very keystone of the structure of lies, because Mr. Crissinger personally knew Senator Harding's grandmother and other members of the Harding family.

As for Professor Chancellor, of Wooster, Ohio, whose name has been used in the thousands upon thousands of circulars under the heading of "Harding's Family Tree," we present his utter repudiation and denial, first from his pen in a letter written to Mr. Sherwood P. Snyder, of Dayton; second, in personal conversation with Mr. L. V. West, of Dayton, reiterating even more strongly his repudiation and denial of the statements used over his name.

We first present the genealogy of the Harding family. Here it is:

THE HARDING GENEALOGY

John Harding, of Dunboro, England, was the father of Abraham and Stephen Harding, whose names appear in the records of Baintree and Medfield, Mass., before 1650. While Abraham, a glover by trade, remained in Medfield, of which town he was one of the founders, Stephen, his younger brother, a blacksmith, went to Rhode Island. He was an original grantee of Swanzey. It is this Stephen Harding who is the direct ancestor of Warren G. Harding.

Two great-grandsons of Stephen Harding, the first, Stephen and Abraham, migrated to the disastrous Wyoming valley of northern Pennsylvania in 1774, and there suffered in the terrible June massacre by the Indians. One of the nephews of Warren G. Harding's ancestors—then a young boy—escaped death only by lying prone in a stream while he had to listen to the dying groans of his relatives and friends.

HARDINGS WHO WERE PIONEERS

Together with Warren G. Harding, the line diverging only slightly, the Wyoming valley and Wilkesbarre Hardings include the famous Garrick Mallory Harding, one of our nation's first and foremost Republicans, and Rebecca Harding Davis, the author, and her son, Richard Harding Davis, the well-known novelist.

Historian George B. Kulp, writing of the Hardings in "Families of the Wyoming Valley," says:

"In glancing at the genealogical record of this branch of the Harding family, many interesting facts are found which connect them, not only with the sacrifices demanded in the early development of this continent, but also with the stirring and patriotic episodes linked with the struggles for freedom and the preservation of the doctrines of liberty. Among the first mentioned is Stephen Harding, who, in 1669, was a freeman in Providence, Rhode Island, and a Baptist in religion."

Tracing the lines back, we find that, between the years 1600 and 1700, Harding's ancestors were:

Stephen Harding—of English parentage, a blacksmith, and one of the original grantees of Swanzey, Robert Crawford—Scotch-Irish, who migrated to early Virginia;

Joshua Dickerson—The second child born in Monmouth county, New Jersey. (German parentage.)

Aert Janz Van Kirk—son of Jans Jansen Verkerken (or Van Kirk), the ancestor of Harding's maternal grandmother, left his house and lands in Bjurnelzen, near Buren, in Gelderland, Holland, and, with his good wife Mayke and five children, set sail on the ship Rosetree for the new world. He settled in Kings county, Long Island, New York, and two of his sons, Aert Jansen and Barent Janz, acquired wives and journeyed into the wilderness of Pennsylvania. It is from Barent Janz Verkerken and his wife (Rachel Van deGraft) that Charity Van Kirk, maternal grandmother of Warren G. Harding is the descendant.

EASY TO TRACE HARDING LINEAGE

Of the Harding direct line we can readily follow them generation to generation, from blacksmith to farmer to sea captain, from warrior to lawyer and doctor and senator.

Harding's mother, Phoebe Elizabeth Dickerson, comes by direct line from the Joshua Dickerson mentioned as the second son of Monmouth county, New Jersey. His life, that of the adventurous pioneer, is conspicuous in settler history. There was a time, strange as it may seem, when the Alleghenies were as dangerous a jungle of the unexplored as are parts of interior India today. Joshua Dickerson was the first man to scale them.

He and Obadiah Holmes, the first son of Monmouth county, New Jersey, were caught in the tide of western emigration which succeeded the French and Indian wars, and, leaving their birthplace, followed the line south from Philadelphia, Dickerson settling on the Maryland side, Holmes on the Virginia side of the Potomac. The two families were long closely allied, both by proximity and marriage. Joshua, after venturing about the Alleghenies, finally, tiring of hair-breadth escapades, settled with his wife (nee Susannah Whitten) and 14 children in what is now Fayette county, on Dickerson run, Pennsylvania.

FIRST HARDINGS COME TO OHIO

Early in 1800 his grandson, Thomas, having espoused the young faith of Methodism in America, left Fayette county and went to Ohio to join an early settlement of Methodists. There he cleared land and built a cabin. He formed a class and instructed the neighboring people in religion. The first Methodist church of the district was named "Dickerson."

"In the name of Thomas Dickerson," says the "Old Northwest" Genealogical Quarterly, "in the very air we breathe, in this presence, in the knowledge of the elders and in the traditions among the younger generations, here are the pulsations of the man's religious zeal and influence and of the character and standing as a citizen and civil official." He lived long and honored at Cadiz and St. Claresville.

And then, away back in 1663, Jan Jansen Verkerken (or Van Kirk), the ancestor of Harding's maternal grandmother, left his house and lands in Bjurnelzen, near Buren, in Gelderland, Holland, and, with his good wife Mayke and five children, set sail on the ship Rosetree for the new world. He settled in Kings county, Long Island, New York, and two of his sons, Aert Jansen and Barent Janz, acquired wives and journeyed into the wilderness of Pennsylvania. It is from Barent Janz Verkerken and his wife (Rachel Van deGraft) that Charity Van Kirk, maternal grandmother of Warren G. Harding is the descendant.

INVESTIGATED HARDING HISTORY BACK TO YEAR 1524

One of the most distinguished citizens of Marion, Mr. J. F. Prendergast, head of the Prendergast company, and a lifelong Democrat, made a detailed study of the above record.

Here is the result of his thorough investigation:

Marion, O., Oct. 29, 1920.

Mr. E. G. Burkam,
Publisher of The Dayton Journal
Dayton, Ohio.

My Dr. Mr. Burkam—I have known Warren G. Harding for 38 years, or ever since he came to Marion. I have known him intimately, and have known his father and mother, and the entire Harding family, for all of whom I have the greatest admiration and respect.

Because of my great friendship and admiration for the Harding family, I HAVE MADE A STUDY OF THE GENEALOGY OF THE HARDING FAMILY, GOING BACK TO 1524, when the forefathers of the present Warren G. Harding were located in England.

This genealogy reveals that the ancestors of Warren G. Harding were of ENGLISH, IRISH, SCOTCH AND HOLLAND DUTCH BLOOD.

The history of the Harding family discloses that it is one of the most remarkable family histories in the United States, and the present members of the family have every reason to be proud of their ancestry, an ancestry one family of which alone gave seven sons to the Revolutionary war.

Any insinuation, any statement or any charge that Warren G. Harding has tainted blood of any kind is a vicious and contemptible lie.

I am making this statement in the interests of justice and truth.

J. F. PRENDERGAST.

Mr. Prendergast's evidence alone refutes absolutely and completely the vile falsehoods to which Warren G. Harding and his family have been subjected.

NAILING IT AGAIN!

We will now nail the lie again with the statement of another distinguished citizen of Marion and a Democrat, Mr. D. R. Crissinger, head of the law firm of Crissinger, Guthrey & Strelitz, one of the most able and honored law firms in the state of Ohio.

Here it is—read it:

"I HAVE BEEN A PERSONAL FRIEND OF SENATOR HARDING FOR OVER 50 YEARS. I KNEW HIS MOTHER; I KNOW HIS FATHER; I KNOW HIS AUNTS AND HIS GRANDMOTHER. Mr. Harding has in his veins a rich mixture of Scotch, Irish, English and Dutch blood, and his genealogical history takes him back prior to the revolutionary war. His ancestors have had a notable and distinguished record from before revolutionary times down to date, and if Senator Harding is elected president, as he surely will be, he will enter the White House with a lineage dating farther back into the colonial history of our own country than any of our presidents."

"There never has been such a cruel, outrageous, contemptible and malicious political lie put out by any party in the history of the country as this is, and it is done for the purpose of influencing the voters to vote against Senator Harding."

We now take up Professor William E. Chancellor, whose name has been used in all the circulars speed broadcast over the country in this contemptible assault upon Senator Harding's family name.

We present the evidence of his denial and repudiation, first by his own letter, second, by his own speech, and third, by a sworn affidavit!

Here is the repely Sherwood P. Snyder, of 705 West Third street, Dayton, Ohio, received in response to a letter of inquiry addressed to Professor Chancellor:

CHANCELLOR'S LETTER TO SNYDER

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 22, 1920

"Dear Sir—I know nothing of the question you ask and think what you have heard is quite false. There is another family of the name of 'Hardin' at Marion, which is of mixed blood. There is no connection between the two families of Harding and Hardin."

VERBAL STATEMENT TO L. V. WEST

Here are Professor Chancellor's spoken words over the long distance telephone Friday afternoon, October 24, to Mr. L. V. West, salesmanager of the Dayton Steel Foundry company, of Dayton, Ohio:

Mr. L. V. West, salesmanager of the Dayton Steel Foundry company, of Dayton, Ohio, yesterday authorized The Journal to make the following statement of his long distance telephone conversation with Professor Chancellor.

"One of our employees received a copy of the fictitious 'Harding Family Tree,' to which Professor Chancellor's name was attached, sent through the mail. He showed it to me and I immediately called up Professor Chancellor on the long distance telephone and talked to him personally. In his conversation with me over the telephone he assured me that he knew nothing whatever about the circulars entitled 'the Harding Family Tree.'

"I then asked him in particular if he knew anything about Senator Harding's pedigree and he replied emphatically and positively that he knew nothing whatever about it."

And finally here is the sworn statement, signed by Professor Chancellor in the presence of Elias Compton, dean of Wooster university, and attested and subscribed according to law:

"As to the Harding ancestry, I hereby certify that I am in no way responsible for, never wrote, never authorized to write and know nothing whatever about the circulars bearing my name on any other paper. That is my signature." (Signed)

WILLIAM ESTABROOK CHANCELLOR

October 28, 1920
